| 2.3                                          | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Creole and respective language to each group                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                          |
| 2.4                                          | Perceived origin.Various origin and Mauritian adaptation                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                          |
| 3.0                                          | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                          |
| 3.1                                          | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;Across Mauritius                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                          |
| 3.2                                          | Other participants (e.g., holders/ custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | None                                                     |
| 3.3                                          | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;Subsistence practices                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                          |
| 3.4                                          | Modes of transmission;Oral, by experiencing with elderly generations, informal teaching                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                          |
| 3.5                                          | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                          |
| 4.0                                          | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                          |
| 4.1                                          | Threats to the enactment;Endangered as there is no more space to rear animals in the court yard since the massive                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                          |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                 |
|-----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | urbanization and privatization of lands. And the socioeconomic changes                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                 |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;Lack of transmission                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                 |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Yes                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                 |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;Endangered                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                 |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.Collection of testimonies by researches                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                 |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                 |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Fieldwork done for the Corniche Bay Project, University of Mauritius, 2007-2008 |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | None                                                                            |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                 |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Fieldwork done for the Corniche Bay Project, UOM, 2007-2008                     |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 03 November 2012, 2018                                                          |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Dr. M. de Salle-EssooManesha SoneeaNational Heritage Fund               |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVESMauritius Marathi Cultural Centre Trust, 2012, A study of Marathi Settlements in Mauritius, Oral history &amp; Anthropological Perspectives , Mauritius.Renaud, P., 2002 (1986), Mauritius , Mauritius : Les Editions du Pacifique,University of Mauritius, 2008, Anthropological Survey of La Gaulette and Coteau Raffin , Corniche Bay Project, Mauritius. |                                                                                 |

CATEGORY II
OTHER PRACTICES RELATED TO NATURE

| HARPARAWRI |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                          |
|-------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|
| 1.0               | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                          |
| 1.1               | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Harparawri                               |
| 1.2               | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Practices concerning nature and universe |
| 1.3               | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Mauritian                                |
| 1.4               | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Mauritius                                |
| 1.5               | Short descriptionWhen there is drought, women mostly of the Hindu community and believers of the force of nature pray for rainfall perform the rain worshipping rite. They take a procession to water sources like wells, rivers, springs and the sea light camphor and sing special songs called the Harparawri asking for rainfall. Special Yaj (prayer) are also performed. The traditional bearers witnessed heavy rainfall at the end of each practice. |                                          |
| 2.0               | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                          |
| 2.1               | Associated tangible elements;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                          |
| 2.2               | Associated intangible elements;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                          |
| 2.3               | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                          |
| 2.4               | Perceived origin.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                          |
| 3.0               | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                          |
| 3.1               | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;Across Mauritius                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                          |
| 3.2               | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | None                                     |
| 3.3               | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                          |
| 3.4               | Modes of transmission;Oral, by experiencing with elderly generations                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                          |
| 3.5               | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                          |
| 4.0               | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                          |
| 4.1               | Threats to the enactment;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                          |
| 4.2               | Threats to the transmission;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                          |
| 4.3               | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Yes                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                          |
| 4.4               | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                          |
| 4.5               | Safeguarding measures in place.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                          |
| 5.0               | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                          |
| 5.1               | Consent from and involvement of the                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                          |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                        |
|-----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------|
|     | community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                        |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | None                   |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | None                   |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                        |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 2017                   |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | National Heritage Fund |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES Mauritius Marathi Cultural Centre Trust, 2012, A study of Marathi Settlements in Mauritius, Oral history &amp; Anthropological Perspectives, Mauritius. Renaud, P., 2002 (1986), Mauritius, Mauritius : Les Editions du Pacifique, University of Mauritius, 2008, Anthropological Survey of La Gaulette and Coteau Raffin, Corniche Bay Project, Mauritius. |                        |

DOMAIN 5

TRADITIONAL CRAFTSMANSHIP

| BROOM MAKING- FASON RANZ BALIE |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                               |
|---------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                   | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                               |
| 1.1                                   | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Fason ranz balie                       |
| 1.2                                   | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                               |
| 1.3                                   | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Mauritians, Rodriguans, Chagossians, Agaleans |
| 1.4                                   | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Mauritius, Rodrigues, Chagos, Agalega         |
| 1.5                                   | Short description A fatak broom can be found in almost every Mauritian household. It was made in Mauritius since time immemorial. It is made from the fatak plant grown in the wild. With extensive deforestation today, fewer and fewer plants remain and fatak makers find it difficult to find plants. It is dried in the sun and the fatak branches are secured together with raffia or Vacoas stems. It takes from a few minutes to several hours to make one broom and current makers make 2-3 broom per day. In the Seychelles, young unemployed youth are being taught fatak making so they can sell them and thus earn some pocket money. The plant is harvested at the same time as the sugar harvest from June onward. It has long stems, and when in full bloom have hundreds of inflorescences which are collected. Brooms can vary in thickness. The stems are dried in the sun and about three bunches are sewn and tied together. They are sold in markets are from door to door by a seller on a bicycle for $1-2 each. This broom is usually used outdoors and is a companion to the balie fatak used indoors. The broom is made using the centre stalk of coconut leaves. Leaves should be fresh and the centre stalk (midribs) removed with a knife. All midribs should be roughly of the same length. About 60-100 stalks are cut, about two feet long and tied together with coconut and various sturdy synthetic and raffia. It is a very durable product and made entirely of natural materials. The coconut brush is made by cutting a coconut across and using the flat surface produced to polish wooden and concrete floors. The coconut broom was traditionally made with either fresh coconut leaves or old ones. Steps: The coconut leaf ribs were cut off. Each rib was grated until only the midrib was left. Only midrib was used in the making of coconut brooms. If fresh leaves were used, the midribs were left to dry in the sun. The coconut broom was assembled using 10 bundles of 25 zig (a typical Chagossian term for the midrib). Coconut brooms were chiefly made for export but the workers were allowed to keep some for personal use. Given that coconut broom making was an important economic activity, one day's task was attributed to some 7 to 10 workers. Even if it was mostly carried out by women, young children (boys and girls) or adolescents, would sometimes be given a small day's load. In Rodrigues island, there is Balie port (door broom): it is named so because the plant used for making brooms is locally named pie port (door plant) that was grown as wind breaker so as to |                                               |

|  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|--|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|  | protect houses from the wind. The technique to make door brooms is the same as the technique to make Fatak brooms. The shoots of the plant are plucked and left to dry in the sun. When dry enough the shoots are stitched together to make brooms. The raw material used to make balie port is different from that used to make balie fatak Rodrigues and therefore the shape and texture of the brooms are different. The stems of the balie port are bigger but smaller and the flowers are larger, taller and plentiful. The seeds are smaller and the colour as well is different. The balie port is smaller than the balie fatak. Balie koko: Coconut broom Balie koko (coconut broom): was made with the midrib of Coconut leaves which is hardest part of the leaves. It is easier to remove the leaves and clean the midrib when it is green than when dry. Then let the midrib to dry in the sun. When they are hard and dry you can assemble the broom. Pile them together and make it to stand in-front of you. Then remove the ribs that are not of the same length, remove the longest ribs first and tie them together to make coconut broom. Some tie the sticks together with a metallic ring but it is not the traditional way to make coconut brooms. To make solid broom you make two stitches to keep the ribs tight together. In Rodrigues coconut brooms were not commonly used because people used balie port that was widespread. They made coconut brooms for exportations. Balie Fatak Rodrigues: Fatak broom Balie fatak (Fatak broom) Rodrigues: in Mauritius it is known as balie timil The technique used to make balie fatak in Rodrigues is different from the Mauritian technique. Fatak broom is made with the tig sek (dry stems) of the plant where as in Mauritius they use the green stems. Brooms that are made with the dry stems that have shed their seeds in their natural habitat are stronger. Therefore the stems should be plucked in February and not before. La cueillette (picking) The life time of the plant in its natural habit is short (approximately one month) from the flowering time in November or December when it starts raining and when it sheds its seeds in approximately February. Therefore you should collect as many stems as possible and while you are plucking the stems you should leave them to dry in the sun. In Mauritius they use a sickle to cut the stems where as in Rodrigues they pluck stem by stem and at soil level. To know the length of the stem you look at the distance between the nods and the leaves. You should select those that have long stems. If there are stems with seeds, with an old comb, you remove the remaining seeds. Fer ban mech (mount the lock) After la cueillette and when the stems are dry, you take each stem to make the mech. When mounting the mech, the stems should be of the same length. You need a certain number of stems to make a mech and tress (plait) them together which means to tie the stems together. Then you could ban mech (sow the stems using points croissés (crossing stitches). You sow the mech in three places: up near the handle; in the middle and then below the nod. You plait all the mech before mounting the broom. |
|--|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | Montaz balie (broom assembly) When all the mech are ready then you can assemble the broom to know its length. To make a broom you need approximately three mech that are of the same length. There are brooms of different length depending on the length of the stems. Then you stitch the mech together; some people name this process nate (plaiting) and others tresse (plaiting). The stitching process is the same as when you make the mech. A traditional balie fatak Rodrigues can last some three years depending on how you use it and for which purpose. The handle of a traditional broom as well is different. For a traditional broom, the upper end is stitched and rounded whereas as the Mauritian balie fatak that is commonly found on markets has a different shape and the upper end is bulging with straw or fatak leaves held together with a plastic tape. I.2.2.d Balie Sindour: Sindaour broom It was made with a grass that was tall with many branches. People used to cut thus grass when it was green, tied the branches together to make brooms to clean the yard. When the leaves were dry and fell, they used the stem as broom. In Chagos island, the coconut broom was traditionally made with either fresh coconut leaves or old ones. Steps: The coconut leaf ribs were cut off. Each rib was grated until only the midrib was left. Only midrib was used in the making of coconut brooms. If fresh leaves were used, the midribs were left to dry in the sun. The coconut broom was assembled using 10 bundles of 25 zig (a typical Chagossian term for the midrib). Coconut brooms were chiefly made for export but the workers were allowed to keep some for personal use. Given that coconut broom making was an important economic activity, one day's task was attributed to some 7 to 10 workers. Even if it was mostly carried out by women, young children (boys and girls) or adolescents, would sometimes be given a small day's load. |
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements It is used in the interior of the house. Hedges of fatak plant grow all over the island and are part of the landscape. Today it is found mainly in rural areas as in urban areas people construct fences out of concrete. The plants are about two metres tall and the seeds are covered in a sort of duvet. The seeds were used as fodder for animals.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                          |
|-----|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------|
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- An associated belief is that the harvest takes should not take place during the period of the full moon and should take place during the ‘mare nwar’ (no full moon). If this is not followed it is believed the fatak deteriorates fast. The origin of this belief was investigated by SPES some years ago and it was found that during full moon, the sap rises and bugs feed more on the fatak, causing the fatak to shed flowers. Thus fatak is harvested in the maree noire in total darkness</li> <li>- It is also believed that when the leaves became rolled, it signifies that bad weather is on the way.</li> <li>- The leaves are used in a concoction to prevent vomiting and intestinal pains</li> </ul> |                                                          |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Source is from the Malagasy fatak meaning tall grass today incorporated into Creole language.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                          |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin.It is of African origin and exists also in the Seychelles. It was brought to Mauritius by Governor Labourdonnais in 1735 from Madagascar as fodder for cattle.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                          |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                          |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.; Fatak broom makers can be found all over the island. One known maker lives in Petit Verger, is a woman and of modest economic status. She has learnt the trade from her parents and has been making balie fatak since the age of 16. She supplements her income by selling vegetables in the market.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                          |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/ custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | -                                                        |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;It is believed it should not be harvested during the period of full moon.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                          |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;From generation to generation and from parent to child, so far although it is recommended to follow the Seychelles example and teach it to young people formally.It is produced also for use as a decorative item.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                          |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizationsNone so far only concerned individuals.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                          |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                          |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | General Indifference and apathy.                         |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | The use of plastic brooms is overtaking the balie fatak. |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;All materials are available. Fatak production should be revived and encouraged as part of the Sustainable development programme of Government but also as side revenue earner. Possibility of reusing it as fodder could be investigated but whether it is the same variety as that brought by Labourdonnais deserves further investigation.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                          |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;The plant is very resistant to drought. It is part of every Mauritian household, standing innocuously in the corner of every kitchen or pantry or yard. It is very durable and eco-friendly product made of entirely natural materials found everywhere. It is non-carcinogenic, non-toxic                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                          |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                |
|-----|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | and biodegradable.Beliefs surrounding the balie fatak could be investigated scientifically such as why it should not be harvested in full moon or whether when the leaves became rolled it signified bad weather was on the way. The use of the leaves as a medication to prevent vomiting and intestinal pains could also be investigated.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.None to our knowledge.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Community Workshop on Intangible Heritage, University of Mauritius, 9 November 2012. Consent form with National Heritage Fund. |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | None.                                                                                                                          |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 2004 Petit Verger. 29 October 2012 from Internet.                                                                              |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | 20122018                                                                                                                   |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by:                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | University of MauritiusNational Heritage Fund                                                                              |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES-The art of making fatak brooms, Express 25/05/2004.-Les arbres de mon pays.Fataque.6.10.2008Nature,http://www.plantzafrica.com/plantnop/panicummax.htm-Seychelles: Unemployed youths learn to make local products, The Nation Seychelles, 31.03.2012. http://www.nation.sc/index.php?art=27014G.Campbell, D Griffiths and the Missionary “History of Madagascar”, Leiden, Studies in Christians Mission, Boston: Brill, 2012, pp. 450, 1003. |                                                                                                                                |

| GRINDING TOOL MAKING-FABRIKASION ROS KARI |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                        |
|--------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                              | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                        |
| 1.1                                              | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Fabrikasion/Fer Ros kari - grinding tool making |
| 1.2                                              | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Domestic craft – FerRos kari                    |
| 1.3                                              | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Mauritians                                             |
| 1.4                                              | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Mauritius                                              |
| 1.5                                              | Short description Mauritius is a volcanic island and basalt is the main construction material in the past. Basalt stone is also used in innumerable items including household items. The Ros kari is carved in a rectangular shape about 3 inches thick. The stone roll used on the ruggedly polished square or rectangular cut stone is called "Baba". It was to be found in all kitchens to grind spices before the electric grinder took over. Up to today spices ground manually are still considered to taste better than those ground in a machine. The Ros kari is found just outside the kitchen or traditionally in an outside kitchen. The stone masons carve many products all over the island. The ros kari is disappearing as housewives use electric grinders to crush spices or purchase packeted spices. |                                                        |
| 2.0                                              | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                        |
| 2.1                                              | Associated tangible elements; The Ros kari carvers need various tools to cut and carve the stone if they do not use mechanical means. It is placed outside the kitchen in a modern home. Traditional homes used to have an outside kitchen where women used to cut vegetables and grind spices outside their home.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                        |
| 2.2                                              | Associated intangible elements; <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Stone carving is a traditional activity inherited from the colonial past when masons were recruited to build public buildings of stone. It was a skill passed from generation to generation, father to son. Indians, mainly from South India were brought as masons by successive Governors to train slaves and young men in stone carving.</li> <li>- It is also an activity that requires much strength, time and patience</li> <li>- The Ros kari itself is a theme in sega and Bhojpuri songs</li> </ul>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                        |
| 2.3                                              | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; All male Mauritians, but generally today of slave origin. Spoken in the Creole language.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                        |
| 2.4                                              | Perceived origin. In the 18th century Indian stone masons were brought to build the infrastructure of Port Louis and train African, Malagasy and Indian slaves. Stone cutting has thus been transmitted from generation to generation since that time through the workshops and through families.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                        |
| 3.0                                              | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                        |
| 3.1                                              | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.; Practitioners were male because of the heavy manual work involved in lifting heavy basalt stone. They are not generally rich as it is not seen as a professional activity and stone masons are generally not very literate. However with formal training now being dispensed and                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                        |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|-----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | possible future membership of local Guilds, this situation might improve.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Promoters of Mauritian savoir-faire including trainers in stone cutting such the Industrial Vocational Training Board which includes stone cutting training.The Enterprise Mauritius wants to promote Mauritian handicrafts and trades such as stone masonry. |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Stone masonry is taught in training schools, through the signature of a MoU with Stone Cutters Guild in France to train young people in stone cutting.                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Mauritius Institute of Training and Development.Heritage institutionsEnterprise Mauritius                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;Modernisation and lack of marketing and management skills of the practitioners may lead to failure of businesses; furthermore demand is reduced as many Mauritians now live in smaller spaces where there is less space for a Ros kari .                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;With the formal training being given now, the threat has been considerably reduced; however it is the demand for the Ros kari that may decline for reasons stated above.                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;-Basalt is found everywhere in Mauritius,-Stone carving tools.-Unemployed youth could be encouraged to enter into this activity as side revenue earner.                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;Making of Ros kari should be encouraged and revived as part of the Sustainable development programme of Government as basalt is available everywhere.A Ros kari lasts forever while grinding machines only a few years.                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.The Centre de Formation des Métiers du Bâtiment has signed an agreement with the Mauritius Institute of Training and Development to train stone Cutters so the stone cutting skills will continue to be transmitted formally. Moreover they will form part of the 'Guild known as the "Compagnon". |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | -Community Workshop on Intangible Heritage, University of Mauritius, 9 November 2012.Consent form with National Heritage Fund                                                                                                                                 |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                   |
|-----|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------|
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;The company is situated at Alfred Bernon Street, Coromandel and is represented by its Director, Mr. Sebastien Guerbette.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                   |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Internet Sources.                                 |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 20122018                                      |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by:                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | University of MauritiusNational Heritage Fund |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES -Ros cari, http://mauricianismes.wordpress.com/2009/11/19/roche-cari/Publié le - http://www.mauritianconnection.com/cuisine/receipe/index.html -MoU between MITD and CFMB, http://www.mitd.mu/shownews Koutchou koutchou deriere la porte...balie!WEEK-END SCOPE Vendredi 22/10/2004 |                                                   |

| BASKET MAKING- FASON RANZ PANIE |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                     |
|----------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                    | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                     |
| 1.1                                    | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Fason ranz panie                             |
| 1.2                                    | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Domestic Craft - Traditional Vacoas Bag Making      |
| 1.3                                    | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Mauritians                                          |
| 1.4                                    | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Mauritius (Coastal villages. Village of Le Bouchon) |
| 1.5                                    | Short description Vacoas leaves (also known as Pandanus) have been used by makers for generations by Mauritians. Slaves first wove and used as a bay cot, for clothes, or to keep food. Maroon slaves are reputed to have used it as mats to jump over walls covered in broken glass to obtain food from peoples' homes. Later this knowledge was applied to making sacks to store products such as sugar rice etc. The vacoas leaf takes several years to produce large enough leaves to be used and can reach over 1.5 metres long. The leaves are collected by the artisan's and his family. The spines are removed and cut in strips depending on the size required. The split leaves are tied together and left to dry either in the sun or shade depending on the shades desired. Exterior leaves become darker while interior leaves give a lighter shade of straw and are used for more refined weaving. Techniques of weaving have remained unchanged over 200 years. The leaves are scraped with the blunt edge of the knife to make it suppler and are straightened. Styles vary: straight braiding, braiding at an angle, and braiding across, etc. Borders are completed by a mandif either by tighter weave or more complex weaving. Most popular among Mauritians was the tant tiffin and tant bazar. From the heart of the Vacoas, is a special product: tant bato, tant tanbour, tant tiffin, etc., usually with geometric designs. Weaving of fibres has a long tradition in Mauritius. Although pandanus (Vacoas) and aloes leaves were originally used, weaving in other fibres developed also over the years, such as with vetiver, novembrier and coconut leaves. It is still essentially female activity. Rotin or rattan weaving is used in furniture making. It is a very delicate work requiring much experience. It is soaked and put to dry in swirls on moulds. It is then heated au chalumeau. To keep its shape. The different parts of the furniture are then assembled. Today it is easier as automatic stapling of the rattan on the wooden frame. The intricacy of the designs depends on the skill and creativity of the artisan. It is becoming an expensive activity face to face with cheaper foreign imports. Vetiver is planted on the borders of cane fields and is harvested easily. Its roots serve to produce essential oils. The leaves also serve as roofing and to make hats, lampshades, place mats, The leaves reach 1 metre in length and are cut when green. They are attached in bunches and left to dry in the sun After 2 to 3 days, the leaves start bending over and are scraped by the blunt edge of a knife to straighten them. They are then cut according to the length desired and are ready to be woven. |                                                     |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|-----|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | Some specialise in particular items. Mrs Labonne who lived in Dan Zak made straw hats. She was the only straw hat maker in the area. People from Baie du Cap to Petite Rivière used to buy her products. The hats were made of vetiver, heart of the latanier leaf (ker latanie) and twigs of aloe. In this process, the straw was woven, and then ironed to harden and flatten the fabric. Afterwards, the hat was sewn. In the not too distant past, many women wore a straw hat to go to the church. Both men and women also wore straw hats when working in the fields. Over the years, wearing straw hats has become outdated but it is still worn by people working outdoors. Younger people wear caps. Traditional Rodriguan handmade baskets were made with bamboo. There were various sizes of baskets of different strengths depending on their use. For example: Rodriguans use baskets to carry their pigs, vegetables and poultry and to store goods. There were two types of bamboos: large and small Chinese bamboos. Baskets and other handicrafts were made with large bamboos. When the bamboo plant started to grow, they had to wait approximately 4 to 5 months for the plant to ripen. The plant is mature when the colour of the leaves changes to a paler colour. Then the bamboo can be cut into planks. Before making a basket, dimensions are first calculated. A prototype is used and a piece of thread is used to measure the basket and the bamboo strip to be used for the new basket. The bamboo pole is cut. The leaves are removed; the bamboo is split first in half, then in fours and again split according to the dimension of the basket and the bamboo. This needs care as it is very easy to cut one's finger. For each basket type and dimension, there is a method to work the bamboo. Once the bamboo is split, the trip is removed. Trip is a local term used to refer to the bamboo pulp. Only the bark is used to make baskets. It is the thickness of the bark that determines the dimension of the stitches and the strength of the basket. After this, the interior and sides are cleaned and polished so the strips become flexible and easy to handle. It is cleaned with caution otherwise one can hurt oneself when plaiting. When the bamboo is ready, the basket can start to be made by plaiting the plato (bottom of the basket). The square shape (fer so care) is obtained by arranging the bamboo sticks and then plaiting it. When the bottom is done, the first circle and the first rattan that will shape the basket is placed, and gradually the other circles. The same bamboo strap that was used for plaiting the plato is used to plait the rest of the basket. Finally the process of fer mandif begins. This is the last hem to secure the last circle and prevent it from loosening. For the basket to be more robust, another circle can be placed with a small bamboo. People used to make baskets as a second source of revenue. |
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                         |
|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | Pandanus (Vacoas) trees                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                         |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements;Tant bazar has become an expression to denote the consumer's weekly basketWords used in basket weaving have Malagasy origins such as the word tant itself, mandif, and soubik.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                         |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 18 th century Mauritian Creole derived from the Malagasy word tanty . |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin.Basket weaving in the village of le Bouchon is of Malagasy origin as is most weaving carried out in Mauritius.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                         |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                         |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;Users of Pandanus laves are mainly women of a low socio-economic status.However, Anne Favory-Félicité, 56 years and residing in Vacoas is atypical weaver example of the upcoming breed of women who have turned their skill into a revenue-generating activity. Apart from Le Bouchon, there is also Bon Accueil village where basket weaving is practised on a large scale.SMEDA has a list of all artisans practising this craft per region. |                                                                                         |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/ custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Cultivators of Pandanus . Artisans in villages, Small enterprises.               |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;-Respect for bio-diversity and protection of rare plants                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                         |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;-Generational.-SMEDA to improve quality.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                         |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).-UNDP.-Primavera Ltd.-L' Association des Hôteliers et Restaurateurs de l'Île Maurice-Small & Medium Enterprise Development Authority                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                         |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                         |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;-Need to preserve promote sustainable growth of the Pandanus.-Need to educate people about the need to use this natural product in a sustainable manner.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                         |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;-Generational- Lack of training to cultivators and bag manufacturers on sound use of Pandanus leaves.-Has been replaced by plastic bags.- Decrease in Vacoas bag makers means less transmission will occur.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                         |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Available but needs to be used sustainably.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                         |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                         |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|-----|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | UNDP report asserts its sustainability. Women are the main users of Pandanus leaves for bag-making as an income-generating activity need to be further encouraged.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place. None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | - University of Mauritius Community Workshop October 2012. Consent form with National Heritage Fund.                                                                                                                               |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation; UNDP Office of Coordinator for Mauritius for reports and progress of project implementation. Primavera Ltd., Mr Germiani Frederic, Avenue Michael Leal, Port Louis, Tel 230 17-2392. Yvonne Grenade, Caudan Craft Market, : 937 44 58                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Interview by Journalist of Ms Grenade. Desk search. Data collected by UNDP on the environment and management of Pandanus utilis and on the socio-economic background of the producers and cultivators. |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 2012 2018                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by:                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | University of Mauritius National Heritage Fund                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES - UNDP Socio-economic study, Ecological study and Consumer study on Feasibility of Vacoas production http://sgp.undp.org/index.php?option=com_sgpprojects&amp;view=projectdetail&amp;id=140&amp;Itemid=205 -Interview with Yvette Grenade, Ile Maurice –Tourism, 12 Weekend scope, PORTRAIT : Anne Favory-Félicité, Artisanne, Tentée par le vacoas. Jean Claude Fleury, Artisanat et Creation, ACCT, 1987. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

| EMBROIDERY, DRESSMAKING, DOLL MAKING- METIE MODIS |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                           |
|----------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                                      | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                           |
| 1.1                                                      | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Metie Modis                                        |
| 1.2                                                      | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Traditional Domestic crafts- Seamstress Embroiderer Cloth |
| 1.3                                                      | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Dressmaking cuts across all communities and social status |
| 1.4                                                      | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | The capital Port Louis and all towns have dressmakers.    |
| 1.5                                                      | Short description Dressmaking and embroidery have been traditional occupations for women and taught as one of the required subjects in the first schools was opened in Mauritius for girls. During slavery, domestic slave women transmitted it to their daughters. Daughters of French settlers sent their daughters to learn embroidery to learn to make their trousseau, baby clothes etc. Up to today, this tradition exists. It has also remained a female activity. Cotton cloth of all qualities was brought cheaply from India and designs for lace and embroidery from France. This created in Mauritius a unique blend of dressmaking and embroidery influenced by both India and France. Although very little has survived of the designs created by women in the 18th century and most of 19th century, the tradition of dressmaking has been passed on from generation to generation. Particular techniques and styles were brought by the immigrants and retained. Weaving however does not appear to have caught on. Even if they are not professional dressmakers, many women in towns and villages of Mauritius know how to sew. They participate in village level activities and exhibit their products. An example is in the tradition of ‘fancy fairs’ where women make handicrafts such as cloth dolls and plush toys to sell for the fancy fair. These traditional objects are sought after by the tourists and Mauritians looking for typical Mauritian crafts. Mauritian embroidery is highly sought after by tourists and exporters. The local market is big enough and Mauritians enjoy personalised items and do not always buy ready-made clothing. Wedding preparations particularly involved lavish costumes, bedding being specially created for the bride while the birth of a baby also leads to personalised clothing being produced. Mauritian female creativity is very much in evidence in this field but is unfortunately not documented. |                                                           |
| 2.0                                                      | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                           |
| 2.1                                                      | Associated tangible elements; Cloth, scissors, thread. Scraps of cloth. The finished products: the dresses, the embroidered bed sheets etc.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                           |
| 2.2                                                      | Associated intangible elements; There is no particular intangible element associated with it but it is considered as an independent economic activity for women as well as being one of the few so-called ‘respectable’ activities in the 18th and 19th centuries for women of the middle class                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                           |
| 2.3                                                      | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; Mauritian Creole, derived from the French “modiste” meaning a hat maker or milliner.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                           |
| 2.4                                                      | Perceived origin. Colonial settlement, practised by freewomen as well as by slave women domestics                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                           |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------|
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;Mrs. V; 63 years, female, dressmaker as representative of many thousands of women who practise it all over Mauritius.Embroideress Mrs Marie-Noelle Varlet, Clemencia village.                                                  |                                                                |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | The younger daughters who learn this skill from their mothers. |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Generational and also taught in schools                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Associations encouraging women's entrepreneurial activities.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;All available.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;Is an important revenue earner for women in families where women may not be allowed to or do not want to work outside.                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.Community ensures safeguarding as Mauritians enjoy personalised clothing and bedding                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | University of Mauritius Community Workshop, October 2012.      |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | One interviewee wishes to remain anonymous.                    |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Bassin Road, Quatre-Bornes.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 7.11.12                                                        |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 2012, 2018                                                     |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | University of MauritiusNational Heritage Fund              |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVESJean Claude Fleury, Artisanat et Création à Maurice , ACCT Nathan 1987.Research Paper on SMEDA based on Interview with Mrs Soneeah, Officer at SMEDA.Return of Anna and Estelle Nonne, listed as 'couturières', MNA 1826 Slave registration returns. |                                                                |

| MATTRESS MAKING- METIEMATLASIE |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                    |
|---------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                   | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                    |
| 1.1                                   | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | MetieMatlasie/ Ranz matla - Mattress making |
| 1.2                                   | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Domestic crafts                                    |
| 1.3                                   | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Mauritians and Rodriguans                          |
| 1.4                                   | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Mauritius and Rodrigues                            |
| 1.5                                   | Short description This is a traditional occupation existing since the 18th century. It is one of the many occupations slaves were engaged in: Marquee La fortune, a 40 year old slave was a 'matlasie' according to census returns. This tradition continued into the 21st century but is dying out as ready-made mattresses are readily available. As they are made of coconut fibre which is quite coarse, these can often pierce though the mattress and prick one at night. A Matlasie could be easily recognised in the street by the 3 sticks they carried with them when they went house to house. Two of the sticks were used to beat the coconut fibre mattress as part of maintenance process and the third kept as spare. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Mattress makers worked in the client's house where mattresses were made and repaired with the help of several tools and using specific techniques generally transferred from father to son. They usually refreshed the (cleaned) coir called 'la bourre' (straws) of the old mattresses and added some new coir. New cloth called 'coutil or couti' was used. The coir is fixed between two thin layers of cotton in the mattress and is sewn with a special waxed thread called fil de Rennes. A rope called 'la corde mattelasier' is stitched all along the borders to give a perfect rectangular shape to the mattress and to strengthen it. As new mattress is always bulky, two small tabs of cloth, rigidly seamed are fixed at different points on both sides of the mattress to flatten it.</li> <li>- Afterwards the mattress was formatted by spreading straw coconut evenly in the canvas, which was called "mattress ticking." Around 22 to 23 kg of coconut straw was necessary for a mattress. The last operation was the upholstery to keep the straw inside the mattress. It was done with the help of two waxed cloth or toile cirée or cotton wool layers or kapok, either connected by a wire and a button or sewed with thread called 'fil de Rennes'. The layer was called couti or coutil. This work was carried out using large curved needles (alêne Fr.). The full implementation of a coconut straw mattress took one day.</li> </ul> In Rodrigues, there was Matla koko (coconut fibre mattress) or Matla lapay (straw mattress): the fibre of dried coconut fibre was piled together, compressed and stacked in a sheath of fabric that was stitched together. People had to beat the surface of the mattress to flatten it and for the mattress to be comfortable to sleep on. Most mattress makers usually had a workshop where mattresses were made and repaired with skilful hands with the help of several tools and using specific techniques generally transferred |                                                    |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |         |
|-----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------|
|     | from father to son. The mattress makers used to work at dawn, from one house to another. The tool used was the carding machine. They cleaned the straws of the old mattresses. Afterwards the mattress was formatted by spreading straw coconut evenly in the canvas, which was called "mattress ticking." Around 22 to 23 kg of coconut straw was necessary for a mattress. The last operation was the upholstery, which allowed keeping the straw inside the mattress. It was done with the help of two adipose tissue connected by a wire and a button often. This work was carried out using large needles, especially needles curves. The full implementation of a coconut straws blanket, called a day of work. This profession is disappearing in Mauritius as very few know the skills and mass mattress production is undertaken by industries. Most mattress makers usually had a workshop where mattresses were made and repaired with skilful hands with the help of several tools and using specific techniques generally transferred from father to son. The mattress makers used to work at dawn, from one house to another. The tool used was the carding machine. They cleaned the straws of the old mattresses. Afterwards the mattress was formatted by spreading straw coconut evenly in the canvas, which was called "mattress ticking." Around 22 to 23 kg of coconut straw was necessary for a mattress. The last operation was the upholstery, which allowed keeping the straw inside the mattress. It was done with the help of two adipose tissue connected by a wire and a button often. This work was carried out using large needles, especially needles curves. The full implementation of a coconut straws blanket, called a day of work. This profession is disappearing in Mauritius as very few know the skills and mass mattress production is undertaken by industries. Further research is required |         |
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |         |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements;Coconut straw, thick curved needles, cloth, 3 sticks                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |         |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements;As it was part of the Mauritian traditional crafts and was used in many households at one time, it has entered Mauritian sega songs: Jean Claude Gaspard sings Matlasie ; Harold Berty Matla Koton . Homage to the work of matlasie was paid by Menwar, by reproducing the gestures of the matlasie with his stick on stage.Skinny legs are called baton mattelassier in Mauritan Creole.Linked to Paillasson .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |         |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;French. Rodriguan Creole                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |         |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | French. |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |         |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                            |
|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------|
| 3.1 | Practitioner(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;Mrs Deenoo now retired. Rose Belle.                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                            |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                            |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                            |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Generational                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                            |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                            |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                            |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;Yes.Rodrigues: Modern methods of making mattressesModern mattresses easily accessibleKnowledge for the making of coconut fibre mattress is disappearingLimited transmission and there are few people who know how to make coconut fibre mattresses                                |                                                            |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;Yes. Youth no longer interested in learning this craft.Sleepers no longer want traditional mattresses.Rodrigues: MigrationLack of interest in ancestral practices and knowledge Consumerism                                                                                        |                                                            |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;No.Rodrigues: Raw material for the making of these elements are still available on the island although they are threatened by mass infrastructural development                                                                                              |                                                            |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;- Limited viability, scientific study required to see if it is healthy as insects can breed in the fibre.- In Bingo (Lotto), the announcer regularly referred to number eleven as “baton mattelassier.”- Skinny legs are called baton mattelassier |                                                            |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.Not protected.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                            |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                            |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | University of Mauritius Community WorkshopOctober 2012 |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | None.                                                      |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Miss Deeksha Deenoo, University History and Anthropology student.                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                            |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                   |
|-----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------|
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | November 2012                                     |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 20122018                                      |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | University of MauritiusNational Heritage Fund |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS,ARCHIVES -Oral Interview with Mrs Deenoo. -View of a matelassier on stage with Menwar sagai singer, www.menwar.net/sagai.swf |                                                   |

| TRADITIONAL WAY OFFLOORING AND PLASTERING-FASONMASONER |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                           |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                                                | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                           |
| 1.1                                                                | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Masoner - Traditional cow dung flooring.                           |
| 1.2                                                                | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Domestic crafts- traditional use of cow dung                              |
| 1.3                                                                | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Rural communities of Mauritius, mainly women of African and Indian origin |
| 1.4                                                                | Physical location(s) of element                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Le Morne, Rivière du Rempart                                              |
| 1.5                                                                | Short descriptionThe practice of coating mud floors and walls is an old traditional practice in India and elsewhere. Before the construction of concrete houses in the 20 th century and when the majority of population were slaves or poor immigrants, people lived in mud and straw huts. During slavery, Malagasy made their hut flooring with red earth. Later in the 19 th century, the mud was made from cow dung mixed with earth and spread out to dry on the floor and on walls of huts. Masoner or lipeke is the action of polishing the mud floor of the madai (thatched hut) This process has to be repeated every three weeks or so. The ingredients are gobar or labour/kaka vas (cow dung), mud and water. The process involves wetting the floor slightly with water; sweeping the floor to make the surface smooth; adding some water to the cow-dung and mix or stir it up; applying a thin layer of the mixture to the floor; smoothing the floor and letting it dry. The smell gradually fades away. Women mainly make the mixture and spread it on walls and floor. Huts made of straw and mud is very cool in summer. However they are not very resistant to strong winds and were regularly blown away. Today one is likely to find only cattle being housed in straw and mud huts. In at least one part of the island, Le Morne, white soil is mixed with the cow dung and water for the floor. |                                                                           |
| 2.0                                                                | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                           |
| 2.1                                                                | Associated tangible elements;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Cow dung, water, straw hut.                                               |
| 2.2                                                                | Associated intangible elements;-Coolness of the hut is refreshing in hot summers.-Nostalgia among those who have lived in mud huts-Has inspired many well-known artists and poets-Associated with estate camp life and poverty.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                           |
| 2.3                                                                | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Mauritian Creole from French term: Masoner                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                           |
| 2.4                                                                | Perceived origin.Practice dates from beginning of settlement of island                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                           |
| 3.0                                                                | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                           |
| 3.1                                                                | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;Generally older or poor women                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                           |
| 3.2                                                                | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Male members of the family construct the frame.                           |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                           |
|-----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------|
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                           |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Generational, heritage institutions such as Aapravasi Ghat Trust Fund.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                           |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Heritage institutions such as AGTF, NHF, NMCAC.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                           |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                           |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                           |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;-Change in the materials and architecture in general-As families do not keep cows anymore there is no production of cow-dung. It is not as available as before.-Many youth and urban communities do not want to touch cow-dung nor are they used to the smell when it is being made.-Few people are aware of how to produce this or make an authentic straw hut                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                           |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;All materials available but people use the cow dung as fertiliser.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                           |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;-According to architects, the coating used gives a protective layer over the mud surface which prevents erosion and deterioration of the mud surface and provides non-dusty floors for longer duration.- The cow dung–mud mix has properties which discourage insects, etc.- It embodies the essence of sustainability.- It is also viable as a heritage item and decorative.- Scientific study on its continued use in Mauritius required on whether it is possible to incorporate it in modern architecture as climatic changes indicate higher temperatures in the future in Mauritius. |                                           |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.-Heritage institutions are beginning to take an interest, but more documentation is required.-Aapravasi Ghat Trust Fund has popularised the use of lipeke/Masoner through its living village exhibition.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                           |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                           |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | -Consent form with National Heritage Fund |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | None                                      |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;AGTF resource Person, Rivière du RempartLe Morne Heritage Trust Fund, Le Morne village                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                           |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 2 and 7 November 2012.2018            |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                   |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------|
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 10 November 20122018                          |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | University of MauritiusNational Heritage Fund |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS,ARCHIVES <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>-Observation of huts of people in the village of Le Morne, Le Morne Trust Fund.</li> <li>- Interview of Suchita Ramdin, UOM/ICH/002/7/11/12/SR/VT</li> <li>- Exhibition 'Indentured Village' Aapravasi Ghat Trust Fund, 2 November 2012</li> <li>- Notes from Munish Pandit, Conservation Architect</li> </ul> |                                                   |

| RUBBER SLIPPERS MAKING -FABRIKASION SAVAT KAROTSOU, CHAUPA |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                         |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                                               | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                         |
| 1.1                                                               | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Fabrikasion/Fersavat karotsou, chaupa, calpa – rubber and wooden slippers making |
| 1.2                                                               | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Domestic craft                                                                          |
| 1.3                                                               | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Mauritian                                                                               |
| 1.4                                                               | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Mauritius                                                                               |
| 1.5                                                               | Short description Shoes and slippers have for various reasons played a highly symbolic role in Mauritian history. During slavery slaves were not allowed to wear shoes and when slavery was abolished, one of the first acts was to start wearing shoes. Many Mauritians having come from modest backgrounds remember the days when makeshift shoes and slippers were made with whatever material was available: rubber tyres (karotsou), goni (gunny bag) to make slippers and wood for kalpa. Traditional shoes include those made of wood and named: “kalpa” or “kalpa dibwa”. These were made up of a wooden sole with a rubber band passing onto the foot or between toes. Some people used to draw on it as decoration. Other shoes include “tanga” which were plastic sandals or “mari poza”, today back in fashion as ballerina shoes but made of plastic. Mauritians of Indian origin also wear “champal”, slippers made of goat skin with straps passing on the foot and between the two first toes. “Champal” were and are still worn both by men and women, but they had different shapes according to gender. Traditional Chinese shoes were made of cloth and called “Hai T’o”. Most of these have disappeared as fashion has changed and people’s standard of living has improved. |                                                                                         |
| 2.0                                                               | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                         |
| 2.1                                                               | Associated tangible elements; After WW2, rubber tyre parts Wood Gunny bag left overs                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                         |
| 2.2                                                               | Associated intangible elements; Associated with letan margo a period when people could not afford to buy shoes or slippers and had to make their own.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                         |
| 2.3                                                               | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; Mauritian Creole/Mauritian Bhojpur                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                         |
| 2.4                                                               | Perceived origin. Practice dates from beginning of settlement of island                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                         |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                |
|-----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                |
| 3.1 | Practitioner(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;All generations, both genders old enough to use scissors or knife and sew/hammer, usually of modest background. |                                                                                                                                |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                            | None.                                                                                                                          |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;None.                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Generational                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Heritage and craft institutions such as NHF, SMEDA                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;None.                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;As the standard of living of Mauritians has improved since the 1970s, few need to make or wear these items. It has only heritage or memorial value.                                       |                                                                                                                                |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Not available.                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;Viable only as a cultural heritage item and for memorial purposes. Deserves its place in history books, museums and craft workshops.                         |                                                                                                                                |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.Heritage institutions are beginning to take an interest.But more documentation is required.                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                   | -Community Workshop on Intangible Heritage, University of Mauritius, 9 November 2012. Consent form with National Heritage Fund |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                         | None                                                                                                                           |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;V. Dilchand, Retired Officer of the Ministry of Agro-Industry, Curepipe Road. Tel. no. 674 6637 or 725-1001                                                       |                                                                                                                                |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                         | 9 November 20122018                                                                                                        |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                  | 10 November 20122018                                                                                                       |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by                                                                                                                                                                                           | University of MauritiusNational Heritage Fund                                                                              |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS,                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                |

|  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|--|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|  | ARCHIVES <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Information collected from collection of oral interviews across several projects and confirmed by Community Workshop on Intangible Heritage, University of Mauritius, 9 November 2012.</li> </ul> |
|--|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

| WAY OF MAKING HOUSES– FASON RANZ LAKAZ |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                      |
|-----------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                           | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                      |
| 1.1                                           | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Fason ranz lakaz                                              |
| 1.2                                           | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Traditional craftsmanship                                            |
| 1.3                                           | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Mauritian, Rodriguan, Agalegan, Chagossian                           |
| 1.4                                           | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Mauritius, Rodrigues and Agalega and formerly on Chagos archipelagos |
| 1.5                                           | Short description The traditional house structure on the island was the straw house whose basic construction included the use of several different sizes of the straw bales. Firstly, people had to erect the standard wooden framework. They used wood to build the roof structure and to give it the rounded shape. Then people used coconut sticks to build the roof skeleton and lastly they thatched the roof and walls with coconut straw. In many houses, the floor was glazed with cow-dung manure. The houses internal spatial organisation was rudimentary and they were one storey houses. Lakaz lapay koko (coconut straw house): it was the traditional house structure on the island whose basic construction included the use of several different sizes of the straw bales and wooden framework. The traditional straw house was approximately 24 feet x 24 feet and were found in the kan nwar (Black camp) Firstly, people had to erect the standard wooden framework. They used coconut trunks for the four main poles that were buried in the soil and Filao trees (Casuarina equisetifolia) as secondary poles known as poto Filao (Filao poles) that were placed in between the main poles. Secondly, they placed the tring (rods) and, thirdly, the crosspiece made with Filao wood. Smaller Filao wood was used as crosspiece. Fourthly, for the attic, in between the crosspiece they placed the golett koko (coconut midrib); this construction stage was called golett (placing the midrib). Fifthly, they thatched the roof and walls with coconut straw; this process was called nate (plaiting). Lastly, they did the floor. The midribs and the coconut bales were tied together with a coconut fibre rope called lamaraz. The house door was made with coconut wood planks. When they cut the trunk, they peeled the bark, the piece of wood between the bark and the heart was used to make planks. The labourers-woodcutters cut the trunks and the sawyer made the planks. While the building of houses and plaiting were a man's job, the women collected the straw and placed the midribs. The women collected 15 straw bales each containing some 20 leaves and coconut midribs but the men collected the Filao wood. The houses internal spatial organisation was rudimentary and they were one storey houses with one room that was divided into two rooms using Aloe gunny bag that was treated with lime or with golett. All the houses had a veranda where people socialised. The straw houses were destroyed after cyclone Andri in 1983 and because there was fire arson. They were replaced by the lakaz en tol (corrugated iron sheet houses). Lakaz later pile (crushed soil house): it was a house made with crushed soil mixed with coral lime. The estate gave them lime. Lakaz en blok korail (house with coral block): it was an old type of construction that dates back to the 18th and 19th centuries. The houses were constructed with coral blocks and the |                                                                      |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                              |
|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | roof was enn tuil (tiled) or later on in corrugated iron-sheet. The tiles were glaze and imported from Mauritius. For example: the vestige of the old police station which is a construction dating back to approximately 1811. The walls were in coral blocks and the roof tiled.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                              |
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                              |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements;The raw material used and the tools used are still available.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                              |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements;The knowledge for the construction of the houses is still present in the collective memory. Although there were people who were specialised builders, yet elderly people were knowledgeable in the construction techniques. Besides all the elderly people who lived in cow dung houses knew how to mazone and they passed this knowledge on to their children, both boys and girls.There was a generational transmission of occupational skills in that fathers used to transmit their knowledge to their sons that used to help their father at an early age, in fact as soon as they reached working age.The vernacular terms as well form part of the tradition knowledge. |                                                                                                              |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Oral transmission was in Agalean creoleWritten transmission was in English and French                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                              |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin.EuropeanAfro-Malagasy since we find straw houses and cow dung houses in African societies.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                              |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                              |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.; There were craftsmen that were specialised in the construction of traditional houses. But long ago, almost all elderly people were knowledgeable in the construction of traditional houses and glazing. The building techniques are still present in the collective memory with the elders being the last guardians.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                              |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Researchers and any other people who know about this craft either from observation or memories transmission. |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;The Archipelago cannot be accessed as it is currently occupied by the BIOT and leased to the USA Government.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                              |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Oral and visual: Transmission of knowledge from one generation to another either orally or through observation.Films, documentaries and photos on traditional houses have been made.Through technical reports that have been written on the local economy in the island dependencies including the Chagos. An inventory is required.Privately-held archives have to be located and inventoried.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                              |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).The Chagos Refugees Group is one of the NGOs fighting for the rights of the displaced Chagossians.Local authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) that are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                              |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                              |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment; Technical innovation and industrialisation brought changes to construction of houses and subsequently to the spatial organisation within and outside houses. New construction materials were introduced and modern architecture developed. Traditional houses were considered outdated and the knowledge and technique as well. Hence, modern building techniques, construction materials and houses replaced the old ones. Similarly these tradition occupations and skills gradually went into oblivion. Although manual skilled builders are still an indispensable manpower, some tasks are now done by machines.                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission; The traditional houses are still present in the collective and individual memories. Elderly people still remember how the houses were constructed and the spatial organisation within and outside the house. However, there is no transmission of occupational skills across generations since there is no demand for these construction techniques that are considered outdated. The young generation of displaced Chagossians that were born in Mauritius has been enculturated and socialised in the Mauritian cultural systems that is greatly influenced by modern European values and in modern capitalist occupational skills and demand. There is a lack of interest in ancestral occupation and knowledge.                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources; In Mauritius and in Chagos, cattle rearing are no more practised on a large scale and therefore, cow dung is not available in large quantity. Although we can still find coconut plants, large coconut plantations are no longer practiced and therefore it is difficult to find the raw material for the construction of traditional houses                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements; In present days, straw houses are considered as green architecture and as environmentally friendly home. Besides the design and construction of these traditional houses that are ecologically sound, there are several benefits to the construction of these houses especially in times of economic hardship. One of the main advantages is that they are economically viable in that the overall construction cost is low. The raw material is readily available and extremely inexpensive if not available for free as well as the associated knowledge. Traditional houses are said to be sustainable buildings. For example, the insulating properties of the straw houses lead to considerable saving in utility bills or energy use. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Focus group discussion, Chagos Refugees Group, 6th November 2012 Focus group discussion, Chagos Refugee Group, 12th November 2012 ICH Workshop, University of Maurius, 9th November 2012 |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation; Mr. Rosemond Saminaden Mr. Olivier Bancoult Mr. France Bertrand                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 09.11.2012 at the University of Mauritius, Reduit 06.11.2012 at the Chagos Refugees Centre, Pointe                                                                                                                               |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                               |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | aux Sables12.11.2012 at the Chagos Refugees Centre, Pointeaux Sables. |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 15.11.20122018                                                            |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Sophie Le ChartierSharon NgNational Heritage Fund                     |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS,ARCHIVES ICH workshop University of Mauritius, 9th November 2012Focus group discussion, Chagos Refugees Group, 6th November 2012Focus group discussion, Chagos Refugee Group, 12th November 2012 |                                                                               |

| CHARCOAL MAKING- FABRIKASION SARBON |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                    |
|--------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                        | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                    |
| 1.1                                        | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Fabrikasion sarbon -Charcoal making         |
| 1.2                                        | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Traditional Craftsmanship                          |
| 1.3                                        | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Agaleans, Chagossians                              |
| 1.4                                        | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Agalega, Mauritius formerly on Chagos Archipelagos |
| 1.5                                        | Short description Sarbon bwa (Wood charcoal):Wood charcoal came from Mauritius. There were some Agalean that made wood charcoal with Filaos wood but they made mostly coconut shell charcoal. They made charcoal in the woods where they went camping in the wood with their baka. .Traditionally you had to a pile wooden logs that were completely covered with soil and straw so that no air could enter. They observed the direction of the wind to identify the place where to set their stove. Then they lit the pile and the fire had to be controlled for the logs to burn very slowly and transformed into charcoal. Usually it could take some 5 days' burning for the making of wood charcoal. Whenever the soil covering the wooden logs cracked because of the fire, additional soil was placed on the cracks. It was made from fallen trees or coconut shells. Sarbon koko (Coconut shell charcoal):It was made by burning the shells of fully matured coconuts in limited supply of air sufficient for carbonisation but not for the shells to become ashes (complete destruction). When the shells carbonised, they extinguished the fire with seawater. To obtain good quality charcoal, the coconuts should be fully dried and clean.Shell charcoal was used as domestic and industrial fuel such as to cook food and by blacksmiths. It was easier to make than wooden charcoal and had a nicer appearance.Charcoal was made for local use and not for export. The use of charcoal is not new; the carbonization of wood charcoal in the forest has long provided an excellent domestic fuel. In some places, the furnaces of the charcoal maker can still be found. One must follow the trail of a charcoal maker to understand the mastery of fire related activity. He uses old methods to produce charcoal. The woods used are casuarinas wood and eucalyptus. The woods are stacked in a volcano-shaped assembly of about eight feet high. The stacked woods are arranged from the largest to the fine branches. The stacked wood is covered with straw and soil, leaving a space in the centre of the oven. The flame is fed into the hole and the fire takes over eight hours spreading to the top. The timber must be heated and the oven has to be baked for eight days from top to bottom. One knows that the coal is ready when the pile of wood is transformed into powder. After the disassembly, the coal is loaded in sacks and sold at hardware stores and individuals. Charcoal making was an important industry during the administration of Governor Labourdonnais. Governor. Charcoal made from bois noir (Accacia) was ground to make gunpowder. It was considered as the best that could be procured. More than 400 workers worked in these workshops. Tons of powders were produced at Moulin à Poudre (Turtle Bay) and Arsenal, exported to France, and used by an army composed mainly of slaves, in the conquest of Madras. The workshop exploded in 1774. This charcoal is probably the reason why 'Sarbon lacacia' (acacia charcoal) was famous. |                                                    |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | Charcoal is primarily produced in forested areas. "Ovens" are connected to each other by small paths. The harvested wood is converted into charcoal in a batch-type process. Traditionally, earth or mound carbonisation kilns with relatively low efficiencies are applied. The skill is in ensuring that the wood turns to charcoal and not into ash and has to be therefore monitored constantly. Slow-burning wood is used: casuarina, eucalyptus, longanier trees. At least four people pile up the wood to make a mound resembling a volcano of about 8 metres high, with bigger logs at the bottom. It takes a day or two to make this mound and sometimes some 4-5 mounds are made. A hole is kept at the bottom through which the fire will be lit. It takes about 8 days for charcoal to form. IT is then bagged and sold to hardware shops and individuals. The rise of barbecues has increased demand for charcoal. One mound can yield up to 500 sacks of coal costing about US$5. In the past, when charcoal was used as domestic fuel, many marchand sarbon (charcoal seller) used to go from house to house in a hand driven cart to sell small bundles of sticks and charcoal. Estates in the past used to have workers who would be making charcoal as part of daily work routine. i.e., in Le Morne, The Cambier property was very active in the 1950s - employing most of the inhabitants living in the various surrounding camps and villages, it carried out a multitude of economic activities such as charcoal making, wood cutting, cotton and coconut plantations, salt pans and animal rearing. Traditionally a circular pile wooden of logs is arranged and this covered with straw and mud and so as to be airtight. The pile is lit through a lateral small opening which acts as a kiln. The fire has to be controlled for the logs to burn very slowly and be transformed into charcoal. Usually it could take some 5 days' burning for the making of wood charcoal. Whenever the soil covering the wooden logs cracked because of the fire, additional soil was placed on the cracks. It was made from fallen trees or coconut shells. Wood charcoal making was a small economic activity in the Chagos. It was made for export to Mauritius and for local use as well. It was the main source of fuel for domestic and occupational use. Traditionally a circular pile wooden of logs is arranged and this covered with straw and mud and so as to be airtight. The pile is lit through a lateral small opening which acts as a kiln. The fire has to be controlled for the logs to burn very slowly and be transformed into charcoal. Usually it could take some 5 days' burning for the making of wood charcoal. Whenever the soil covering the wooden logs cracked because of the fire, additional soil was placed on the cracks. It was made from fallen trees or coconut shells. Wood charcoal making was a small economic activity in the Chagos. It was made for export to Mauritius and for local use as well. It was the main source of fuel for domestic and occupational use. |
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements; The raw material used in the making of charcoal and hearth for cooking.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements; The making of coconut charcoal is still present in the collective memory. The vernacular terms as well are part of the traditional knowledge.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; Oral transmission in Agalean Creole Written transmission in French and English                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
|-----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 2.4 | Perceived origin.Seychellois origin given the close links between Seychelles and Agalega during colonialism.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;Mr. Margeurite Sam used to make wood charcoal.The charcoal makers. Both men and women used to make coconut charcoal and everyone knew how to make shell charcoal that was the main source of fuel. It is still present in the collective memory.                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Researchers and any other people who know about this craft either from observation or memories transmission.Former colonial powers that have archived all the documents pertaining to Agalega.The families of the former colons and administrators that lived on the island and that have compiled private archives. |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Oral and visual: Transmission of knowledge from one generation to another orally. There are also travelers that took captured daily lives of Agaleans. But these private collections have to be inventoried.There are also technical reports that were written on the local economy in the island dependencies including Agalega but these also have to be inventoried.                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Outer Island Development CorporationLocal authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) that are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry.British and French national archives where documentations pertaining to colonial times are preserved.                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;With the advent of electricity supply on the island gradually, charcoal became an obsolete fuel source. Owing to the changing lifestyle and living standards, most households do not use charcoal anymore. Once, electricity entered all the houses and electrical appliances entered the local market, people stopped using charcoal.Besides, charcoal making raises ecological questions regarding global warming and the imperative to opt for green energy sources that are environmental friendly and that are sustainable. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;There is a transmission of the associated traditional knowledge as well as the skills that are present in the collective memory. However, the traditional making of coconut charcoal is not perpetuated.Besides, with the mass migration of Agaleans to Mauritius because of the lack of opportunities in their home country, there is an erosion of traditional skills and knowledge. The young generation has adopted European value systems and lifestyles.                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                               |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------|
|     | Raw material for the making of coconut shell charcoal is still available on the island but coconuts are harvested for other uses. The knowledge as well is still present in the collective and individual memories.                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                               |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements; It is important for the young and future generations to know how their ancestors lived because it is part of their family history and socio-cultural markers. When people have a good grounding in their family history as well as national history they can build their future with strong social and cultural roots since they do not live in a vacuum. |                                               |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place. None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                               |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                               |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                               |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | None                                          |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation; Mrs. Yéline PoulayMr. Hervé Sylva                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                               |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 19.11.2012 at University of Mauritius, Reduit |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 19.11.20122018                            |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Sophie Le ChartierNational Heritage Fund  |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES Working session with Mrs. Yéline Poulay and Mr. Hervé Sylva, 19th November 2012, University of Mauritius.                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                               |

| WAX AND HONEY MAKING-FABRIKASION LASIR EK DIMIEL |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|---------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                                     | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 1.1                                                     | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Fabrikasion Lasir ek dimiel                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 1.2                                                     | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Traditional Craftsmanship                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 1.3                                                     | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Agalean                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 1.4                                                     | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Agalega                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 1.5                                                     | Short description Agalega is an isolated island where people lived a semi-sustainable life style. The local economy relied on the production of coconut produce that was exported to Seychelles and to Mauritius also. Other products were also produced for local consumption essentially. Lasir (wax): Wax is a by-product of honey. They took the pain de miel (honey cells) that they crushed using a pasoir. It was made from lastik (residue after honey extraction) that was cooked with water on mild fire. They turned the mixture until it thickened. The wax was used for local use and was exported to Mauritius as well. - Dimiel (honey): Apiculture was common practice. Honey is collected in the woods for personal use. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2.0                                                     | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2.1                                                     | Associated tangible elements; The raw materials and tools used for making these products, the vestiges of the place where these items were produced and the tools used are still available: Paswar (sieve): it consisted of a natural sieve made from the tami koko (a Seychellois word that means coconut sieve). The tami koko was the part of the coconut envelope that is similar to a pass thé. There are still beehives on the island.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2.2                                                     | Associated intangible elements; The associated knowledge and skills as well as the dexterity required. The vernacular terms as well constitute intangible heritage. All the Agaleans knew how to make honey and wax that are still alive in the collective memory and individual memories of the elderly people.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2.3                                                     | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; Oral transmission in Agalean Creole Written transmission in English and French                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2.4                                                     | Perceived origin. Unknown.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 3.0                                                     | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 3.1                                                     | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.; The elderly people and the Agaleans who continue to live on the island. Although they do not collect honey anymore, yet the knowledge is still alive in their memories.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 3.2                                                     | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Researchers that have studied the Agalean society and former colonial powers that have archived all the documents pertaining to Agalega. The families of the former colons and administrators that lived on the island and that have |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                              |
|-----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------|
|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | compiled private archives.                                   |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                              |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Oral transmission: knowledge was transmitted across generations.Written transmission: there are technical reports and correspondences that were written on the local economy in the island dependencies including Agalega but these have to be inventoried. There are travellers and missionaries as well that went to Agalega and that wrote ethnographic writings on the island.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                              |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Outer Island Development CorporationLocal authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) that are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                              |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                              |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;There are still many beehives on the island but the people cannot collect honey because the local forest is infested by yellow flies.These traditional occupations such as the making of wax gradually became obsolete with Agalegans being more dependent on consumption markets. Few people continue to produce what they need as most of them buy the goods that are imported from Mauritius.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                              |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;There is limited transmission of these memories and knowledge to the young generation since this knowledge and skills are considered obsolete and there is lack of interest among the young people to safeguard these memories. Besides, there is migration of Agaleans to Mauritius that has led to an erosion of traditional skills and knowledge.The young generation of Agaleans that was born in Mauritius has been enculturated and socialised in the Mauritian cultural systems.                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                              |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;See section 2.1                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                              |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;The island was isolated. They were producing what they needed for personal consumption and for exportation as well. Without these knowledge and skills, people would not have developed the local economic and social system and to adapt to the harsh living condition.There is raising consciousness about the imperative to use renewable and biodegradable fuel sources for sustainable development. These traditional knowledge and skills for making copra and coconut oil and the raw material used are environmental friendly and constitute potential resources for the island and thus they should be preserved and transmitted. |                                                              |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                              |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                              |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | ICH workshop organised on the 24 th October 2012. |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | None                                                         |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Mrs Yéline Polay                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                              |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                           |
|-----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | Mr Hervé Sylva                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                           |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | 24.10.2012, University of Mauritius, Reduit14.11.2012, Phone interview19.11.2012, University of Mauritius, Reduit |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 19.11.20122018                                                                                                        |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Sophie Le ChartierNational Heritage Fund                                                                              |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES INHF/UOM/WS01/24.10.12 Phone interview with Mr. Jasmin, from Agalega, conducted on the 14th November 2012. Working session with Mrs. Yéline Polay and Mr. Hervé Sylva, 19th November 2012, University of Mauritius |                                                                                                                           |

| SOAP MAKING- FABRIKASION SAVON |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|---------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                   | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 1.1                                   | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Fabrikasion Savon-Soap making                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| 1.2                                   | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Traditional Craftsmanship                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 1.3                                   | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Agalean                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 1.4                                   | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Agalega                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 1.5                                   | Short description Agalega is an isolated island where people lived a semi-sustainable life style. The local economy relied on the production of coconut produce that was exported to Seychelles and to Mauritius also. Other products were also produced for local consumption essentially: Savon (soap): was made for local use in a big cast-iron pot. They used caustic soda imported from Mauritius. When it was not available they made their own caustic soda. They burnt coconut leaves until it became ashes with leaves of bwad fee (a local tree called fairy wood) for its fragrance. Then they mixed ashes and water that they filtered and collected the delo la sendr (ashy water) to use as caustic soda. After that, they mixed the liquid to crude coconut oil (not refined oil) and turned the mixture until the caustic soda solidified the oil. Next, they poured the mixture in a mould that they left in the sun to dry and when solidified they cut the brick of soap into small parts. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2.0                                   | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2.1                                   | Associated tangible elements; The raw materials and tools used for making these products, the vestiges of the place where these items were produced and the tools used are still available: The cast-iron pot used for making soap has been preserved until now but now it is covered with kadoc leaves (Nickernut or Caesalpinia bonduc) and is in bad state. There are still coconut plantations on the island although the exploitation of coconuts has reduced compared to long ago.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2.2                                   | Associated intangible elements; The associated knowledge and skills as well as the dexterity required. The vernacular terms as well constitute intangible heritage. The making of soap is still present in the collective memory.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2.3                                   | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; Oral transmission in Agalean Creole Written transmission in English and French                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2.4                                   | Perceived origin. Unknown                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 3.0                                   | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 3.1                                   | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.; Elderly people and Agaleans who continue to work in the coconut plantations.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 3.2                                   | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Researchers that have studied the Agalean society and former colonial powers that have archived all the documents pertaining to Agalega. The families of the former colons and administrators that lived on the island and that have |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                           |
|-----|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | compiled private archives.                                                                                                |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                           |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission; Oral transmission: knowledge was transmitted across generations. Written transmission: there are technical reports and correspondences that were written on the local economy in the island dependencies including Agalega but these have to be inventoried. There are travellers and missionaries as well that went to Agalega and that wrote ethnographic writings on the island.                                                                                 |                                                                                                                           |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others). Outer Island Development Corporation Local authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) that are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry.                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                           |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                           |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment; There are still many beehives on the island but the people cannot collect honey because the local forest is infested by yellow flies. This traditional activity has become obsolete with Agalegans being more dependent on consumption markets. All the goods and products they need are imported from Mauritius. Few people continue to produce what they need.                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                           |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission; There is limited transmission of these memories and knowledge to the young generation since they are considered obsolete and there is lack of interest among the young people to safeguard these memories. Besides, there is a migration of Agaleans to Mauritius that has led to an erosion of traditional skills and knowledge. The young generation of Agaleans that is born in Mauritius has been enculturated and socialised in the Mauritian cultural systems. |                                                                                                                           |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources; See section 2.1                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                           |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements; The island was isolated. They were producing what they needed for personal consumption and for exportation as well. Without these knowledge and skills, people would not have developed the local economic and social system and to adapt to the harsh living condition.                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                           |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place. None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                           |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                           |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | ICH workshop organised on the 24 th October 2012.                                                              |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | None                                                                                                                      |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation; Mrs Yéline Polay Mr Hervé Sylva                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                           |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 24.10.2012, University of Mauritius, Reduit14.11.2012, Phone interview19.11.2012, University of Mauritius, Reduit |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 19.11.2012                                                                                                                |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                              |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------|
|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 2018                                         |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Sophie Le ChartierNational Heritage Fund |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS,ARCHIVES INHF/UOM/WS01/24.10.12Phone interview with Mr. Jasmin, from Agalega, conducted on the 14th November 2012.Working session with Mrs. Yéline Polay and Mr. Hervé Sylva, 19th November 2012,University of Mauritius |                                              |

| MAKING OF COIR ROPE- RANZ LAMARAZ |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
|------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                      | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 1.1                                      | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Ranz Lamaraz                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 1.2                                      | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Traditional Craftsmanship                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 1.3                                      | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Agalean                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 1.4                                      | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Agalega                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 1.5                                      | Short descriptionIt was made with green coconut leaves. On the leaf there are threads that could be removed easily. They soaked these fibres in water and women made coconut ropes by twisting these fibres on their thing. People were paid to make these ropes that were used in the construction of thatched houses.                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2.0                                      | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2.1                                      | Associated tangible elements;The raw materials and tools used for making these ropes are still available for free.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2.2                                      | Associated intangible elements;The associated knowledge and skills as well as the dexterity required. The vernacular terms as well constitute intangible heritage.The knowledge as well is still present in the collective memory of elderly people.                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2.3                                      | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Oral transmission in Agalean Creole                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 2.4                                      | Perceived origin.Unknown                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 3.0                                      | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 3.1                                      | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;The elderly people who recall these memories and the carpenters and foremen who used to build houses in Agalega.                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 3.2                                      | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Researchers that have studied the Agalean society and former colonial powers that have archived all the documents pertaining to Agalega.The families of the former colons and administrators that lived on the island and that have compiled private archives. |
| 3.3                                      | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 3.4                                      | Modes of transmission;Oral transmission: knowledge was transmitted across generations.Written transmission: there are technical reports and correspondences that were written on the local economy in the island dependencies including Agalega but these have to be inventoried.There are travellers and missionaries as well that went to Agalega and that wrote ethnographic writings on the island. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 3.5                                      | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Outer Island Development CorporationLocal authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) that are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry.                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                           |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                           |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;People stopped making this rope with the disappearance of straw houses. With technological innovation, the construction of houses changed and new materials and building techniques have replaced old ones. Similarly, the use of bastin is now obsolete. These traditional materials are now considered outdated and their associated knowledge as well. |                                                                                                                           |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;There is limited transmission of these memories and knowledge to the young generation since they are considered obsolete and there is lack of interest among the young people to safeguard these memories.                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                           |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;The raw material is readily available and extremely inexpensive if not available for free as well as the associated knowledge. The traditional tools also are still available. Some of the carpenters and foremen are still alive                                                                                              |                                                                                                                           |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                           |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                           |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                           |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | ICH workshop organised on the 24 th October 2012.                                                              |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | None                                                                                                                      |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Mrs Yéline PolayMr Hervé Sylva                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                           |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 24.10.2012, University of Mauritius, Reduit14.11.2012, Phone interview19.11.2012, University of Mauritius, Reduit |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 19.11.20122018                                                                                                        |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Sophie Le ChartierNational Heritage Fund                                                                              |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVESINHF/UOM/WS01/24.10.12Phone interview with Mr. Jasmin, from Agalega, conducted on the 14 th November 2012.Working session with Mrs. Yéline Polay and Mr. Hervé Sylva, 19 th November 2012, University of Mauritius                                                                |                                                                                                                           |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                  |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | POTTERY -POTRI                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                  |
| 1.0 | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                  |
| 1.1 | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Potri - Pottery                                           |
| 1.2 | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Artistic Crafts Pottery                                          |
| 1.3 | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Mauritians                                                       |
| 1.4 | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Mauritius                                                        |
| 1.5 | Short description Extraction of minerals from the earth started as early as 1735 with Governor Labourdonnais with iron ore being extracted. From 1920, the red clay has been used to make bricks and also for pottery. Indian immigrants introduced this craft in the beginning of the 20th century and the techniques have not changed since. The red clay is extracted from the cane fields after a preliminary survey is carried out. The clay is found usually about 50 to 60 cms below the surface. It is extracted using baskets and transported to the potters workshop. It is broken into lumps and cleaned of stones, grass and other impurities; It is then soaked in a basin for about 15 hours then kneaded. Basalt dust is added. Then it is worked to give it an even finish. The most common objects made are diyas (clay lamps used during the Divali festival (the kalsa (pot used in Indian marriages), karha (a plate) and the bandana (incense burner) The surah (for water) is less in demand today and is more of a decorative object. In addition to religious objects, vases, plats etc. are made. Once modelled the objects left to dry for several days and then baked. A wood fire is used, first in bare flames and later the heat is gradually reduced to prevent objects bursting. This can last in a traditional kiln for up to three days. |                                                                  |
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                  |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements; Basket, spade, hoe, jute bags, Bassin, sieve, potter's wheel, kiln                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                  |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements; Many objects are used in religious ceremonies, and especially the diya used for the Festival of Lights...                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                  |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; Hindi, Tamil, Creole                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                  |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin. The Arsenal Pottery was started in about 1920 after Immigrant Cundasamy came to Mauritius from South India. His daughter Ratna Chettiar has perpetuated this tradition, as well as her ex-husband.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                  |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                  |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.; Ratna Chettiar, Arsenal , Female, Potter Sewnarain Ragoobar, Guy Rozemont street Arsenal, male potter                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                  |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/ custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Other members of the family and workers attached to the pottery. |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                  |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                   |
|-----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | None to our knowledge, techniques having been well-documented.                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                   |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Family.                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                   |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Handicraft and small business promotion Agencies.                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                   |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                   |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                   |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;None. It is a family business.                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                   |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Available.                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                   |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;These products are highly sought after and often demand exceeds supply.                                                                                                              |                                                                   |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.Both are thriving family businesses.                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                   |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                   |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                           | National Heritage Workshop on Intangible Heritage, November 2012. |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                 | None                                                              |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                   |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                   |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 7.11.122018                                                   |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | University of MauritiusNational Heritage Fund                 |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVESTony Manglou, Notes d'ethnologie sue une poterie traditionnelle a Arsenal (ile Maurice)Jean Claude Fleury, Artisanat et Creation a Maurice, ACCT, Nathan, 1987. |                                                                   |

| SCULPTURE-SKILPTIR |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                           |
|---------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------|
| 1.0                       | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                           |
| 1.1                       | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Skilptir                  |
| 1.2                       | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                           |
| 1.3                       | Community concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Mauritians and Rodriguans |
| 1.4                       | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Mauritius and Rodrigues   |
| 1.5                       | Short description Mauritius has known only a few sculptors in the nineteenth century, these have been well-known internationally and have sculpted only occasionally in Mauritius, notably the sculptor, Prosper D'Epinay. Sculpture as a popular art only began in the 20th century when the population could enjoy some leisure time. It is still an activity that requires investment and state support. Mauritian sculptors have been very prolific and used all locally available materials: stone, wood, coral, coconut as well as imported materials such as bronze. Although training in sculpture is not given formally in school, the tradition has existed for long in Mauritius. A boost to popularising sculpture was given when Lewis Dick opened a Sculpture school in 2000. It has up to today welcomed nearly 4,000 students. Mango wood as well as eucalyptus and stone is favoured in this school. Numerous prizes have been won by Mauritian sculptors. Wood and Stone Sculpture Belonging mostly to the Creole community, people in Chamarel live mostly with their manual skills, whether in stone or wood cutting and sculpture, other artefacts, or simply as masons. Traditional craftsmanship form an integrate part in the life of most Chamarel people. The narrations of some people's life in the collected interviews reveal more about the manual skills of those people who consider craftsmanship as an intangible cultural heritage. For wood sculpture, the right type of wood is wood from the jackfruit or eucalyptus tree. Each piece of wood is treated and sculptured for about one month to give a finished product. Mauritius has known only a few sculptors in the nineteenth century, these have been well-known internationally and have sculpted only occasionally in Mauritius, notably the sculptor, Prosper D'Epinay. Sculpture as a popular art only began in the 20th century when the population could enjoy some leisure time. It is still an activity that requires investment and state support. Mauritian sculptors have been very prolific and used all locally available materials: stone, wood, coral, coconut as well as imported materials such as bronze. Although training in sculpture is not given formally in school, the tradition has existed for long in Mauritius. In Rodrigues Island, people used to make craft sculptured products with corals. This type of craft work is nowadays mostly performed by youngsters. |                           |
| 2.0                       | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                           |
| 2.1                       | Associated tangible elements; Stone, mango wood and eucalyptus wood, coral.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                           |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                           |
|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | Sculptor's tools.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                           |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements;Sculpture as evidenced through Mr. Lewis' school of sculpture has raised students who were non-performing at school into another level. Self-confidence and Mauritian talents are emerging.                                                                         |                                                                                                           |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Creole                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                           |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin.Sculpture has a long tradition in Mauritius and a large number of Mauritian sculpted figures adorn the City Centre. Wood, Stone and bronze are favourite materials and are available everywhere.                                                                                  |                                                                                                           |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                           |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;Lewis Dick and his students at the Ecole de Sculpture de Bambous, fellow sculptors Dharmadeo Nirmal Hurry, sculptorDhyaneswar Dausoa, wood and stone sculptorAshok Kallooa , bronze |                                                                                                           |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/ custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Students, unemployed youth, internationally recognised sculptors                                          |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;None known                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                           |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;School of sculpture                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                           |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Rotary Club, à Food and Allied, à Caritas, au service d'écoute de Chamarel, aux Forces Vives de Roches Bois,                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                           |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                           |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                           |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                           |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Available.                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                           |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;Has 11 schools of sculpture scattered all over island.                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                           |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.National Art Gallery maintains a list of artists (Appendix) and regularly showcases artists work. Most artists and sculptors rely on their own private initiatives.                                                                                                 |                                                                                                           |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                           |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                | -Consent from School of Sculpture.-National Heritage Workshop on Intangible Heritage, 9 November 2012 |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                   |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------|
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | None.                                             |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;-Lewis Dick, Sculptor, School of Sculpture, Bambous, Tel no. 725.2840,-Dhyaneswar Dausoa, Dagotiere,-Marcel Prévost, Sculptor, Bois-Marchand,-Bagooaduth Kallooa Beau- Séjour, Piton.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                   |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | National Heritage Workshop on Intangible Heritage |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 7.11.122018                                   |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | University of MauritiusNational Heritage Fund |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- À l'école de Sculpture de Bambous: Michelangelo chez Lewis Dick' WEEK-END, 23 January 2012</li> <li>- Dans l'imaginaire de Marcel Prévost, WEEK-END10 JUIN, 2012</li> <li>- agooaduth Kallooa, by Marie-Annick Savripène L'EXPRESS, 08/11/12</li> <li>- List of artists in Mauritius, National Art Gallery, http://www.nagartists.org/eng/meetTheArtist.php</li> <li>- (Forthcoming): Tristan Breville, Répertoire Culturel Mauricien</li> </ul> |                                                   |

| MAKING STRAW HATS- RANZ SAPO LAPAYE |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                           |
|--------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------|
| 1.0                                        | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                           |
| 1.1                                        | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Creole: Sapò lapay |
| 1.2                                        | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Traditional Craftsmanship |
| 1.3                                        | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Rodriguans                |
| 1.4                                        | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Rodrigues                 |
| 1.5                                        | Short description Men, women and children used to plait Vetiver, laloès (Aloe), leskin (Milkstripe euphorbia) and latanier (Latania) after dinner and during their spare time as an additional source of income. It was not group work and therefore there were no work songs composed surrounding this activity. Some men were specialised in the making of straw hats for men. There were women that were specialised in the making of hats for both men and women. It is a craft that requires much patience, dexterity and skill. However, there are not many hatters although many people know how to plait. Plaits of straw were bought and given to a specialist who, with a thread, would measure the circumference of head and then would mount the hat without the need of a mould. Based on the measurements he took, he would weave the hat by hand with only one plait. Weaving started from the apex of the crown to the brim. The plait is turned and a crown woven into circular forms around baget koko (coconut sticks) or baget latanier (Latania sticks) which is used to give the hat its shape. While weaving, with a bottle, they dress lapay (flatten the straw) before stitching the plait on the sticks. After the crown is completed, weaving and stitching the brim with the same plait follows. The models for the hats were imported but adapted and local materials used. All Rodriguans used to wear straw hats. They had a hat to go to work and another to go to mass and for ball. They decorated their hats with ornaments such as ribbons. Women were obliged to wear a hat to go to mass and they did not remove it when they entered church because their head had to be covered inside the church. Men were not obliged to wear a hat and when they entered the church they could remove it. The same technique was used to make straw hats with Vetiver, laloès (Aloe), leskin (Milkstripe euphorbia) and latanier (Latania). Children used to wear Latania straw hat to go to school and the women used to wear Aloe and Vetiver straw hats. |                           |
| 2.0                                        | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                           |
| 2.1                                        | Associated tangible elements; The raw materials used for traditional hats are still available. Element Fer Tress– weaving                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                           |
| 2.2                                        | Associated intangible elements; The traditional knowledge associated to the gathering of the raw materials (the plants to use, when and how they should be plucked) and the making of hats. The vernacular terms uses as well.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                           |
| 2.3                                        | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; Rodriguan Creole                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                           |
| 2.4                                        | Perceived origin. Weaving is Malagasy tradition.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                           |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |  |
|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |  |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.; The father and uncles of Mr. Melchaide Prosper used to make straw hats and he used to plait straw when he was a child. The father of Mr. Jean Daniel Spevil was renowned for making sapo latanier (Latania hat)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |  |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |  |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |  |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission; Oral transmission across generation and written transmission as well given that there are many reports that have were written on the economic and social situation in Rodrigues but these documents have to be inventoried.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |  |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others). Commission de Rodrigues Local authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) that are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |  |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |  |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment; The making of traditional hats has evolved and dressing habits as well have evolved. Following the increasing exposure to Mauritian and international influences, Rodriguan lifestyle and dressing habits have changed. The inhabitants are gradually adopting a European lifestyle and are influenced by European western fashion. Furthermore, they are more and more dependent on imports from Mauritius and we can see Mauritian fashion invading the local market. Consequently, traditional straw hats are being replaced by caps and by contemporary standardised models of hats made with modern fabrics that are produced in mass. |  |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission; Young people lack interest in handicrafts and prefer white collar jobs. Hence there is limited transmission of traditional knowledge and skills. They have adopted the Mauritian lifestyle and they are not motivated to perpetuate traditional jobs and values that they find outdated. Besides, traditional local values and practices had given way to modern ones rooted in European value systems. While long-ago the wear of hats was a norm when attending church or other formal festivities, nowadays it is an obsolete practice.                                                                                               |  |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources; Raw material for the making of these elements is still available on the island but people are no-more interested in making traditional crafts.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |  |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements; Traditional hat making is a viable source of income. It is an ecological and low-cost way of earning an income and of protecting oneself. They are solid and durable products that can be exported to Mauritius and can be sold on local markets as well.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |  |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |  |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |  |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |  |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |  |

|     |                                                                                                                         |                                              |
|-----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------|
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Mr. Melchaide Prosper                                           |                                              |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                       | 15.11.12 at Pointe aux Sables                |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                | 28.11.20122018                           |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                     | Sophie Le ChartierNational Heritage Fund |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS,ARCHIVESUOMICH_MP001_A_SLC_PteauxSables_15.11.2012 |                                              |

| PRODUCTS MADE OF COCONUT- PRODWI AVEK KOKO |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                               |
|---------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                               | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                               |
| 1.1                                               | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Creole: Prodwi avek kokoEnglish: Products made of coconut |
| 1.2                                               | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Traditional Craftsmanship                                     |
| 1.3                                               | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Agaleans                                                      |
| 1.4                                               | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Agalega                                                       |
| 1.5                                               | Short descriptionCoconut is a very important production of Agalega. Each part of the coconut is used. One of the uses is to produce craft products out of the nut. It is polished and given different forms. Objects for every use and souvenirs are made very skilfully. |                                                               |
| 2.0                                               | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                               |
| 2.1                                               | Associated tangible elements;The raw materials used for traditional souvenirs are still available.                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                               |
| 2.2                                               | Associated intangible elements;The traditional knowledge associated to the gathering of the raw materials (the plants to use, when and how they should be plucked) and the making of hats. The vernacular terms uses as well.                                             |                                                               |
| 2.3                                               | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Agalegan Creole                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                               |
| 2.4                                               | Perceived origin.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                               |
| 3.0                                               | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                               |
| 3.1                                               | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                               |
| 3.2                                               | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                               |
| 3.3                                               | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                               |
| 3.4                                               | Modes of transmission;Oral transmission across generation and written transmission as well given that there are many reports that have were written on the economic and social situation in Agalega but these documents have to be inventoried.                           |                                                               |
| 3.5                                               | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                               |
| 4.0                                               | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                               |
| 4.1                                               | Threats to the enactment;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                               |
| 4.2                                               | Threats to the transmission;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                               |
| 4.3                                               | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Raw material for the making of these elements is still available on the island but people are no-more interested in making traditional crafts.                                                                 |                                                               |
| 4.4                                               | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                               |
| 4.5                                               | Safeguarding measures in place                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                               |

|     |                                                                                         |                        |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------|
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                         |                        |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying; |                        |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                       |                        |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;                                    |                        |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                       |                        |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                | 2018                   |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                     | National Heritage Fund |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES                  |                        |

| ROPE MAKING- FASON RANZ LAKORD |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                  |
|---------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1.0                                   | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                  |
| 1.1                                   | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Creole: Fason Ranz Lakord |
| 1.2                                   | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Traditional Craftsmanship        |
| 1.3                                   | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Rodriguans                       |
| 1.4                                   | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Rodrigues                        |
| 1.5                                   | Short description To thatch the houses, bales of straw are used.To make Lakord Vacoas -Vacoas ropes: Dried Vacoas leaves are split to make straps that were used as ropes. To make lakord laloues- Aloes ropes: Aloe leaves were dried in the sun and then split to make straps that were used as ropes.Further research is required.           |                                  |
| 2.0                                   | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                  |
| 2.1                                   | Associated tangible elements;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                  |
|                                       | Straw huts.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                  |
| 2.2                                   | Associated intangible elements; The traditional knowledge associated to the gathering of the raw materials (the plants to use, when and how they should be cut) and the making of the ropes. The vernacular terms uses as well.                                                                                                                                         |                                  |
| 2.3                                   | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                  |
|                                       | Rodriguan Creole                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                  |
| 2.4                                   | Perceived origin.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                  |
|                                       | Unknown                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                  |
| 3.0                                   | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                  |
| 3.1                                   | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                  |
| 3.2                                   | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                  |
| 3.3                                   | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                  |
| 3.4                                   | Modes of transmission; Oral transmission across generation and written transmission as well given that there are many reports that have were written on the economic and social situation in Rodrigues but these documents have to be inventoried.                                                                                                                      |                                  |
| 3.5                                   | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others). Commission de RodriguesLocal authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) that are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry. |                                  |
| 4.0                                   | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                  |
| 4.1                                   | Threats to the enactment; The introduction of modern ropes that are said to be stronger such as nylon.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                  |
| 4.2                                   | Threats to the transmission;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                  |
| 4.3                                   | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                  |
| 4.4                                   | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                  |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                          |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------|
|     | Traditional craftsmanship is a viable source of income. It is an ecological and low-cost way of earning an income in time of crisis and subsequently of sustaining a living. They are solid and durable products that can be exported to Mauritius and can be sold on local markets as well. |                                                          |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                          |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                          |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                          |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | None                                                     |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Mr. Melchaide Prosper                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                          |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 21.11.12 at Pointe aux Sables                            |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 20122018                                             |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Sophie Le Chartier, Mr. FleuryNational Heritage Fund |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS,ARCHIVESUOMICH_MP005_A_SLC_PteauxSables_21.11.2012                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                          |

| LIME MORTAR MAKING- FABRIKASION LASO |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                |
|---------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                         | IDENTIFICATION OF ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                |
| 1.1                                         | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Creole: Fabrikasion lasoEnglish: Lime mortar making |
| 1.2                                         | Short, maximally informative title                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Economic Crafts - Conservation craft                           |
| 1.3                                         | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Mauritians and Rodriguans                                      |
| 1.4                                         | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Mauritius and Rodrigues                                        |
| 1.5                                         | Short description The use of Lime in construction dates to the beginning of the settlement of the island: under the Dutch settlement and in the French period. Lime mortar was used extensively in construction. A vernacular architecture developed using locally available materials. Similarly new ‘recipes’ for lime mortar was developed in Mauritius. In the 18th century the following ingredients were mixed with lime to produce mortar: Jaggery water, Live white lime, Yoghurt, 50 egg whites, butter and Gingely oil. All 19th century stone public buildings used lime mortar in their construction. The basic composition of this mortar remains unchanged today, and such mortar is currently being used in the conservation of the Aapravasi Ghat World Heritage Site and other conservation projects. Conservation assistants were specially trained in lime masonry using the following organic ingredients for better bonding and workability. These were prescribed by the Conservation Architect after an intensive study of the archival material and chemical composition of the lime mortar present in existing historic buildings of Mauritius. These ingredients were: Sugar Syrup, Bael (Stone Apple), Methi (Fenugreek seeds) and Uradh dal (split black gram). The following are the stages in lime preparation using traditional methods in Mauritius: I: Preparation of lime: Burning of Lime stone or coral or shells at 1400 degree Centigrade to produce ‘quick lime’. This is packed and delivered to the site in airtight bags. II: Slaking of Quick Lime: Slaking involves the process of hydration of quick lime. Fill the tank with water. Empty the bags into the tank. As this is an exothermic reaction giving out heat, care needs to be taken by providing the worker with mask, gloves and gumboots. Five bags are added at one time and then stirred for some time, to see that all the limestone pieces start slaking. About one inch of water is allowed to stand over the lime. This is stirred twice a day. The slaked lime is sieved into another storage tank, using a sieve of size 1.18 mm to remove any unslaked stones III: Sieving of sand: The sand required for the mortar is sieved with a sieve size 2.36 mm. The sand used should be free of salts. IV: Mixing of lime with sand: Unlike conventional cement, the lime and sand mortar is not just mixed, but also crushed. This is done to fuse the lime particles with sand at molecular level resulting in a better mix. Traditionally this was done with the help of a stone wheel operated by slaves, bullock or horse in a circular fashion. Today, a tractor operates the purposely-built stone mill. V: Maturing of Lime: The lime mortar is stored in mounds at the site. The maturing period for the lime mortar differs from 7 to 14 days. The top layer of the mortar, which has hardened, is scraped and the mortar from the inner core is removed to be remixed before use VI: Adding organic ingredients in the lime mortar: Sugar Syrup, Stone Apple, Fenugreek |                                                                |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                             |
|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | seeds and split black gram is added.VI: Setting of lime mortar: If lime mortar is left to dry too rapidly, carbonation of the mortar will be reduced, resulting in poor adhesion and poor durability. The lime mortar is cured by sprinkling water twice a day for minimum of 7 to 10 days. |                                                             |
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                             |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements;Lime Mortar, sand,sugar syrup, stone apple, fenugreekseeds and split black gramFormer sites of lime kilns around the island.                                                                                                                                      |                                                             |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements;Memories of lime kiln workersRituals associated with lime kiln workers and lime conservation workers                                                                                                                                                            |                                                             |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Creole and Bhojpuri                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                             |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin.Lime making exists all over the world: in Mauritius probably a mixture of both traditions in France and India                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                             |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                             |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;;Males, Aapravasi Ghat Conservation Assistants                                                                                                                                              |                                                             |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Aapravasi Ghat Trust Fund, National Heritage Fund           |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;None                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                             |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;None, It is not taught formally in Mauritius. And a second generation is not being trained.                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                             |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Heritage Institutions.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                             |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                             |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;Extraction of sand is forbidden by law, as is extraction of coral. It is allowed only under special circumstances: for sugar mills.                                                                                                                                       |                                                             |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;No formal training                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                             |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                             |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;Extraction of sand is forbidden by law, as is extraction of coral.                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                             |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                             |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                             |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Aapravasi Ghat Trust Fund who employs the persons concerned |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | None                                                        |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                   |
|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------|
|     | inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                   |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Corinne Forest, Head Technical Unit, Aapravasi Ghat Trust Fund                                                                                                                                 |                                                   |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 2004                                              |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 14.11.122018                                  |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | University of MauritiusNational Heritage Fund |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS,ARCHIVES Noel D'Unienville., L'Ile Maurice et sa Civilisation, 1949.Extracts from Conservation Booklet published in 2004 By Munish Pandit, Conservation Architect |                                                   |

| TRADITIONAL FISHING- FASON LAPES |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                |
|-----------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                     | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                |
| 1.1                                     | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Creole: Fason LapesEnglish: Fishing |
| 1.2                                     | Short, maximally informative title                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Economic craft fishing                         |
| 1.3                                     | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Mauritians                                     |
| 1.4                                     | Physical location(s) of element;Mauritius (Black River, Grand Gaube, Baie du Tombeau, Pointe-aux-Piments, Pointe aux Sables, Roche Bois, Mahebourg, Trou d'Eau Douce, Grand Gaube, Grand Baie, Poudre d'Or and Poste de Flacq, Le Morne, Tamarin, La Gaulette)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                |
| 1.5                                     | Short description For the fishermen, the sea is their foster mother and thus they have to respect and live in harmony with his natural environment. This closeness and special relationship with nature is important for the practice of traditional fishing. The interpretation of the natural elements, of the signs of nature has been passed down from generation to generation. The fishermen have learnt how to interpret the movement of the clouds, the wind and the waves which are signs of impending fine or bad weather. Fishermen have also learnt to navigate through the various pas and channels in the lagoon which are natural passages through the coral reef leading to the high sea. In coastal villages, different techniques may exist. In La Gaulette e.g., angling and net fishing are the traditional fishing techniques. The history of fishing is an integral component of the history of these villages. Fishing was not just an economic activity and a means of subsistence. For those born in the region; it was also a family affair and a way of life. Indeed, many form part of fishing families, who have been practising it for generations. Even though some of them have other jobs, they revert to fishing at some point in their life.      |                                                |
| 2.0                                     | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                |
| 2.1                                     | Associated tangible elements; Various types of nets and baskets, hooks, boats and tools for repair. These are studied in greater detail under Domain IV Category Traditional fishing practices                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                |
| 2.2                                     | Associated intangible elements; The knowledge which was passed on from the elders to the younger generations as part of the apprenticeship of traditional fishing also included the various names and specificities of the fish which constitute the marine fauna and flora of the lagoon, such as the reproductive cycle of the fishes. Before going fishing, the fishermen said a prayer either at home or in their boat. They also make the sign of the cross asking for protection of the God. Each year, a special mass is organised in the Roman Catholic Church for all the fishermen. The oral cultural tradition of the village is replete with vernacular terms used by fishermen and the villagers to designate fishing tools, species of fish, boats and gear. These constitute important elements of traditional knowledge that are expressed orally. Although identical terms exist in other communities, there are regional variations. The use of distinctive terms also constitutes folk knowledge such as traditional names for fishing grounds and place names of great significance, like Pas Lanbilant and Trou Zegwi. These terms and names are specific to this geographic region and are unknown outside it. These vernacular terms are still present |                                                |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | in the collective memory of the village but if not transmitted to the younger generation, this knowledge will disappear. For example, according to R.D.D. Pointe des Hollandais in Le Morne where long ago the seine fishermen used to camp was named Pas One Eye , and the site named Pointe d'Amour in Le Morne where boats were kept was known as Bigafi                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Creole                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin.Fishing has been an activity for people of African, Malagasy, Dutch, French and Indian origin since the settlement of the island in the 18 th century. Fishing practices and techniques have become merged. It was practiced individually or as a business.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;Fishermen are found in most coastal villages and have been inventoried. See attached list of registered fishermen.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Families of fishermen, often take over fishing when fathers and husbands are reported lost at sea.Banians who market the fish and provide boats and nest to fishermenFishing Cooperatives are being encouraged. |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Generational.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).-Professional Fishing Association of La Gaulette and similar associations all over the islandGovernment of Mauritius                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;1. Tourism has negatively impacted on the marine environment that fishermen consider to be their heritage. The informants have observed that the number of fish in the lagoon has significantly diminished. Furthermore, sites where fishermen used to regroup have now been taken over by surfers. There is less space.2. The young people engaged in the trade practice illegal fishing; for example, stealing fish in fishing nets, fishing with a gun, and catching fish not conform to legal sizes. They do not respect the life cycle of marine animals and this impinges on the reproduction of species and which in the long run, will result in the extinction of these species.3. Chemicals: Pesticides from sugar cane plantations, tan oil and other chemicals have caused fish to go deeper in the sea and have destroyed the coral reefs. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;1. Transmission exists but needs to be supported by state especially as concerns appropriate behavior and sustainable practice of fishing in lagoon, controlling tourism and supporting traditional fishing.2. Illiteracy of older fishermen.3. Poor fishermen are easily exploited by people offering cash in exchange for them                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|-----|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | abandoning their occupation.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;All materials are available but are becoming expensive.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;It will be difficult for the elder fishermen to impose their traditional fishing on younger fishermen who are impatient for cash benefits. Education of young fishermen in sustainable use of lagoon and a return to traditional fishing techniques will hopefully resolve this. A more cooperative spirit needs also to be encouraged and cooperatives encouraged as there is a perception of exploitation by middlemen.Activities of unregistered fishermen and amateurs should not remain unchecked.                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.Pensions provided by Government to fishermen and allocations during bad weather. But little help concerning purchase and repair of nets etc.Fishermen School set up and about 1300 fishermen trained.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | -Consent was obtained during the course of an inventory of cultural heritage undertaken in the villages of the south west of the island in 2008-9 and earlier. Consent forms stored at the University of Mauritius.-Community Workshop on Intangible Heritage, University of Mauritius, 9 November 2012.Consent form with National Heritage Fund |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Interview recording and transcript is available.Only initials of informant supplied.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Maya de Salle Essoo and Sophie Le Chartier, both anthropologists attached to this project and to University of Mauritius.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | La Gaulette, Interview with B.E.G., 03 June 2008, CBOHA - BEG03_06_08 and others.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | 12.11.20122018                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | University of MauritiusNational Heritage Fund                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES-Historical and Anthropological Survey of La Gaulette/Coteau Raffin, University of Mauritius, 2008.Commissioned by Corniche Bay IRS. Consists of full description of work of marine carpenter with colour photos-Julie Cornec MA Dissertation on fishing traditions in South west of islandFrançois INISAN, La pêche traditionnelle dans une communauté créole du sud de l'île Maurice (Océan Indien). 1996. COTE:M-06735-00.-Annual Reports, Ministry of Fisheries.-Mauritius Truth and Justice Commission Report, Volume 1, pp.255-260 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |

| SHOEMAKING -KORDONERI |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                  |
|------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------|
| 1.0                          | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                  |
| 1.1                          | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Kordoneri |
| 1.2                          | Short, maximally informative title                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Economic craft   |
| 1.3                          | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Mauritians       |
| 1.4                          | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Mauritius        |
| 1.5                          | Short description Shoes are a very symbolic element in Mauritius as during slavery slaves were not allowed to wear shoes. One of their first acts after abolition was to start to wear shoes. Until the recent past, there was at least one Kordonie in every town or village in Mauritius in the days when readymade shoes were not available in large quantities or were expensive. Handmade shoes are reputed to be more comfortable than machine made shoes. The Kordonie also repaired shoes, resoled heels and made shoes to measure. Handmade leather shoes were very popular in Mauritius. In the past locally produced leather was used in the shoemaking process. In 1959, there were nine licensed tanning establishments in Mauritius employing 41 workers altogether. It can be described as a ‘backyard industry’ with two tanneries responsible for most of the output. The hides come entirely from locally slaughtered animals, mainly cattle and goats. The quality of the leather varies. 411 workers were employed in making and repairing footwear in 222 establishments. These were mainly small craftsmen, and one or two workshops. Traditional shoemaking was largely practiced in Mauritius until the late 20th century. Shoemakers practiced their art with skilful hands, precise techniques and using specific tools. This skill was transmitted from father to son. Few Mauritians has this skill nowadays. |                  |
| 2.0                          | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                  |
| 2.1                          | Associated tangible elements; Leather, artificial leather, rubber (sometimes local, sometimes imported from Hong Kong and India), glue.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                  |
| 2.2                          | Associated intangible elements; The kordonie was inseparable from the daily life of towns in Mauritius, similar to the barber, or the grocer. A visit to the cordonnier formed part of one’s daily routine. For the cordonnier it is not only a job but a passion and a work of love. Young people do not want to touch other peoples ‘shoes.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                  |
| 2.3                          | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; Mauritian Creole                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                  |
| 2.4                          | Perceived origin. The occupation existed since the 19th century as 2 slaves were listed as cordonnier in 1826. There were also free cordonnier at the time.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                  |
| 3.0                          | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                  |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|-----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;Started 3 years ago: Eddy Jean Jacques, male 51 years, Cassis, Port Louis.Started 30 years ago: Cordonnerie Mona à Port-Louis2 nd generation: Pierre Etiennette, propriétaire de la Cordonnerie Etiennette, Rose-Hill.                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Families passed on the trade of shoe-making to new generations.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).-Association of Footwear Manufacturers-Ministry of Business, Enterprise and Cooperatives-SMEDA (Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority)-CJS Guillemin Brothers & Co Ltd (local shoe manufacturers)-Young Bros. Ltd (local shoe manufacturers)                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;Imported shoes (Malaysia, Indonesia, India and especially China) are generally cheaper and are of better quality than locally made shoes. Moreover, people nowadays prefer to buy another pair of shoes rather than repairing their old shoes by paying cobbler.                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;The shoe-making profession that was handed down from generation to generation is no longer interesting to youth. The industry's survival hangs by a thread. The Mauritius Institute of Training and Development (MITD) confirms that the Polytechnic School no longer offers courses 'Footwear and Leather craft', because since the last 10 years, there has not been any demand for it. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Availability is sufficient as raw materials for shoe production are mostly imported.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;In the long run, unless the mind set of young people is changed, this profession is doomed to die. Unemployed youth must be encouraged to engage I it.                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.The Ministry of Business, Enterprise and Cooperatives has promised to protect the local shoe-making industry from competition with cheaper foreign shoes.                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Local shoe-makers are quite happy to provide accounts of their struggle to remain profitable within the shoe industry in Mauritius.-Community Workshop on Intangible Heritage, University of Mauritius, 9 November 2012. Consent form with National Heritage Fund |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                   |
|-----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------|
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                   |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Phone Interviews.                                 |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 20122018                                      |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | University of MauritiusNational Heritage Fund |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES http://business.mega.mu/2012/09/27/import-taxes-war-shoes-solution-need-urgently/ (2012) http://soe.intnet.mu/nominees/personality_shoes.htm (2005) J.E. Meade, The Economic and Social Structure of Mauritius, Routledge (2011) Government of Mauritius, Report of the Truth and Justice Commission, Volume 1 (2011) Petits métiers dans la rue, Reportage Cordonnier, Le glas a sonné, Radio Moris 28 Mars |                                                   |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                            |
|-----|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | SALT-MAKING- FABRIKASION DISEL                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                            |
| 1.0 | IDENTIFICATION OF ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                            |
| 1.1 | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Creole: Fabrikasion diselEnglish: Salt making                                          |
| 1.2 | Short, maximally informative title                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Traditional Economic craft                                                                 |
| 1.3 | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Mauritians                                                                                 |
| 1.4 | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Mauritius (Tamarin, Black River village, Le Morne village, Petite Rivière and Les Salines) |
| 1.5 | Short description Governor Labourdonnais introduced salt making in Mauritius in 1735. By 1815 there were five salt pans in Mauritius. Most of them were located close to the sea in the district of Black River. The southern part of this coastal district has low rainfall and higher temperatures than other districts of Mauritius. Today only one is left in the coastal village of Tamarin. Canals connect the salt pans to the sea and water flows in during high tide. Today in Tamarin, sea water is pumped in artificial shallow stone basins covering some 30 hectares. The water is left there for some days and then sent to different ponds where it was left to crystallise. The sea water naturally evaporated and after evaporation. White crystalline clumps of raw salt are obtained. Workers usually women, rake the salt into heaps. The salt is put in baskets and left to drain and then was stored in the shed. The salt was placed in plastic bags (or gunny bags in the past) and loaded onto trucks. Because salt making depends on climatic conditions, the highest load is in summer (September to January) and lowest load in winter. The salt is taken to a refinery plant. The refinery “Raffinerie de L’Ouest” then removes impurities from the salt and refines it. The salt is then packed and put on the market. In the past, boats transported the salt to Port Louis. Today there are only 18 workers left. The women all report that working conditions have improved but the process of salt extraction has not changed. They are all dressed in straw hats as protection from the sun, gloves and boots. Work starts at 5 a.m. and ends about 11 a.m. Although it is hard work, they do not wish for the salt pans to close as some have been working here since they were teenagers and know no other work. |                                                                                            |
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                            |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements; Stone salt pans, pipes bringing sea water, Baskets. Dress of salt pan workers: large brimmed straw hats.boots, gloves and brooms.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                            |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements; Symbol of back breaking work. But for many it is a family tradition to work in salt pans.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                            |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; Creole                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                            |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin. Has existed since 18th century in Mauritius.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                            |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                            |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;Mainly Creole women involved.                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/ custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Owner of salt pans Les Salines Mont Calme.                                                                                                                                                             |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;-none                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Generational.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Heritage preservationLes Salines Mont Calme.                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;Only 4 salt pans survive in Mauritius today.                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;Salt is also imported so that competition exists.                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;All materials are available.                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;Not viable. Can remain as heritage tourism. The Ravel family who owns the Les Salines Mont Calme have opened a Salt Museum (Musée de sel). Guided visits are held. It produces between 1 500 to 1 800 ton per year. |                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.None, other salt pans have been allowed to be demolished.                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                          | Consent was obtained during the course of an inventory of cultural heritage undertaken in the villages of the south west of the island in 2008-9. Consent forms stored at the University of Mauritius. |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Interview recording and transcript is available. Only initials of informant supplied.                                                                                                                  |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Maya de Salle Essoo and Sophie Le Chartier, both anthropologists attached to this project and to University of Mauritius.Jean Jacques Orjoon, 926-6276                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Interview with Louis Stephen Auguste, La Gaulette, June 2008, CBOHP.                                                                                                                                   |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | 20082018                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | University of MauritiusNational Heritage Fund                                                                                                                                                      |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES -Historical and Anthropological Survey of La Gaulette/Coteau Raffin, University of Mauritius, 2008.Commissioned by Corniche Bay IRS. Consists of full description of work of marine carpenter with colour photos Antoine Chelin, 1507-1947 Une Ile et son passé: Ile Maurice, 1973. http://www.mauritiusuncovered.co.uk/general/salt-pans-mauritius/ Adila Mohit, Les travailleuses des salines – Le sel de la vie... en péril, Defi Media Group, Sunday, 01 July 2012. Photographs: Life in Mauritius. Women salt-pan workers, The Wellcome Library, The European Library, http://www.europeana.eu/portal/record/9200104/A3A4F56C12AD2323AEC5358F7926184E373AB48C.html |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

| TOMB MAKING- METIE TOMBALIST |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                |
|-------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 1.0                                 | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                |
| 1.1                                 | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Creole : Fason fer Tonb |
| 1.2                                 | Short, maximally informative title                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Economic craft                 |
| 1.3                                 | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Mauritians                     |
| 1.4                                 | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Mauritius                      |
| 1.5                                 | Short description Stone work in Mauritius is a traditional activity inherited from the colonial past when masons were recruited to build public buildings of stone. French stone masons could not work with blue basalt stone being more used to pierre calcaire which is less hard. South Indian masons were brought by Governor Labourdonnais and successive Governors to train slaves and young men in stone carving and stone cutting. It became a skill passed from generation to generation. In addition to stone cutting and stone masonry emerged the tonbalist working specifically on tombstones. Indeed the word does not exist in the French language. Tonbalists work with stone cutters who cut the stone for them and with engravers who carve out letters on tombstones. Although letters were carved in the stone previously, it is also common to purchase marble slabs, engrave letters on it and then place it on the tombstone. The letters are traced with a pencil on imported marble, once the size is calculated. The chisel is held at an inclined angle to form letters were previously drawn in pencil. If the marble is glossy, before starting to engrave, one must apply water-based paint on the marble and put it in the sun for fifteen minutes to dry. The engraving can now begin with a tiny hammer and chisel. Once completed, oil-based paint is applied on the engraved letters. It is then put to dry until the next morning. According to Paul Domrah, although there are machines to do this work, by hand one is able to change fonts. Cost of engraving is calculated per letter. The size of the letters is also considered in fixing the price of labour. This marble plaque is then placed on the grave. Previously, letters were engraved on slate. Tonbalist engrave words, numbers and the Christian religious cross onto gravestones using special hammers and scissors. Often, they pay a rock-cutter to cut the shape of the gravestone out of natural basalt rock first. Famous tombaliste of the 19th and 20th centuries include: Pierre Mangallon, Arthur Antoine, Emmanuel Latulipe, Leopold Fanor and Anatole Malecault. |                                |
| 2.0                                 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                |
| 2.1                                 | Associated tangible elements; Hammer and chisel for traditional stone cutting; electric grinders and compressors for modern stone cutting. Black pen for writing over the lettering. Water and oil-based paint.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                |
| 2.2                                 | Associated intangible elements; A sega dating from 1890s contains a question 'Pierre Mangalon dire moi qui ou metier ? (Pierre Mangalon, Tell me, what is your profession). He replies: Mo metier tailleur de pierre dans l'allée des Filaos (my profession is that of a stone cutter in the Allée des Filaos). Pierre                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                |
|-----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | Mangalon was a famous tombalist working near the Western Cemetery where the L'allée des Filaos still exists. Perception that tomb cutters occupy an ambiguous space between the living and the dead.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Mauritian Creole                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin.The tonbalist occupation developed from the French colonial period.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                |
| 3.1 | Practitioner(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;Male Creoles aged between 50 and 80 years:e.g- St Pierre : JOSEPH LABONNE, officier du Bureau de La Société Buriale de Saint-Pierre St Pierre- Cassis : 10 stone masons including : Vel Vyavooree Roger Noël, 72 ans, Paul Domrah- Belle Rose : Herve Delaitre, Tel: 7284188 / 7216809, blog post : http://hddelaitretombaliste.blogspot.com/ |                                                                                                                                |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/ custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | -                                                                                                                              |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;Stone masons rarely share the source of good stone                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Passed down to younger generations within families.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;The occupation is on a decline, whereas in the past tomb makers were in greater demand.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;Young people do not want to learn how to make tombs; most tomb makers of the modern day are older men.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Available                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;Stone work is increasingly popular but not necessarily for tombstones.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | -Community Workshop on Intangible Heritage, University of Mauritius, 9 November 2012. Consent form with National Heritage Fund |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | None                                                                                                                           |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Ishrat Hossenbux, Research Assistant                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                           |
|-----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 11 March 2005: Les Salines, Cassis4 September 2012: Cassis21 March 2008 : St PierreBelle Rose On site-observation and examination of website 7 November 2012. |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 20122018                                                                                                                                                              |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | University of MauritiusNational Heritage Fund                                                                                                                         |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES -http://www.lemauricien.org/wes/050311/me.htm (2005) -http://www.defimedia.info/defi-quotidien/dq-magazine/item/18228-tombalistes-%E2%80%93-%C3%A0-l%E2%80%99%C3%A2ge-de-pierre.html (2012) -http://hddelaitretombaliste.blogspot.com - -Les Radotages d'un vieux citadin. Journal Action. 22 August 1960. -Government of Mauritius, Report of the Truth and Justice Commission, Volume 1 (2011). |                                                                                                                                                                           |

| GUNNY BAG MAKING- FASON RANZ SAC GONI |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                    |
|----------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                          | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                    |
| 1.1                                          | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Creole: Fason ranz Sac Goni |
| 1.2                                          | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Economic Craft                     |
| 1.3                                          | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Mauritians                         |
| 1.4                                          | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Mauritius                          |
| 1.5                                          | Short description Aloes was introduced since the 18th century into Mauritius. Several varieties of the aloe plant existed. In 1736 Labourdonnais introduced sisal or aloe fibre production when he started ships building. The fibre called ‘l’etoupe’ was used both to calk -‘calfater’-ships and to make ropes for the riggings. The building for ropes production and storage was situated near the harbour. The street was appropriately named Corderie Street. It was not cultivated on a large scale until 1870s: the two varieties were the Creole aloes and the Malagasy aloes. The first was rich in fibre. It can be harvested after 3-4 years. The fibre needs to be extracted. It is creamy white and then is washed bleached and dried and then converted into rope. Of the fibres of this plant, ropes and a coarse cloth are produced. With the coarse cloth, heavy duty sacks called goni bags were made to store sugar for exportation in replacement of tentes vacoas. The craft sector tapped on the fibre and the cloth to produce various artefacts as fancy bags, tablemats, hats, embroidered rugs, carpet etc. In the past, a primitive way of extracting pulp was to beat the aloes plant with a piece of wood and separate it from the fibre. Once crushed, the leaf was scraped on the surface to remove the pulp gradually. Another method was to roll the leaf over with a heavy stone roller. Extraction was mechanised as a metal scraper was used to extract fibre. IN 1914 there were nearly 50 factories all over the island but by 1932 reduced to 11 aloes mills sending aloe fibre to the Central Sack factory. Mostly women were employed. Goni bags were also importaed: Canabady &amp; Sons were one of the importers. The goni was use for multiple purposes: fishing for shrimps in the river. It was commonly used to make a rough bed called Katya: a frame fixed on four feet, entwined with coco coir ropes, on which goni bags are nailed. A mattress called ‘paillasse’ made of two goni bags filled with grass completed the bedding. As demand outpaced supply, importation began. Furthermore, with synthetic materials available and cheaper imports of sacks and rope, this industry has died down and is limited to artisanal production. In 1980 when sugar began to be transported by trucks and poured directly into a Sugar Terminal this symbolised the death of commercial goni sack manufacture. Cultivation of aloes was further reduced with the closure of aloe fibre mills and sack making factory. |                                    |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | Today, aloes is used in making other products: hats, slippers, bags and lampshades. It is also possible to cut the floral pole so finely so as to make napkins.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements; <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Tools used: scraper, split bamboo sticks, horizontal poles on which the aloes fibre are put out to dry in the sun. Carder or comb - Products derived from aloes: plain fibre mainly used for crafts. l'etoupe, used to calk ships; strings, rope, and a coarse cloth called la toile goni with which bags called 'sac goni were made.</li> <li>- Ruins of aloes fibre factories still remain.</li> <li>- The Sack Factory building located in the town of Quatre Bornes is still standing but is no longer producing goni bags.</li> </ul>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements; <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Goni has been described as 'a companion of all seasons in the routine life of Mauritians of all backgrounds.'</li> <li>- It was linked to the bedding of indentured labourers as a katya. The goni was spread on the bed and filled dried grass.</li> <li>- It was used as paillasse or type of bedding for the common people of Mauritius. ---The sugar-cane cutters used to wrap it around their waist up till their knees and also wore "soulie goni" in order to protect their legs and feet against sharp sugar-cane leaves, in the days when boots were not supplied to workers</li> <li>- The Dockers used to cover their heads to avoid deposit of dust on their hair and shoulders.</li> <li>- The poor utilized it as blanket to warm themselves in cold winters.</li> <li>- A layer of goni sewn between two pieces of cotton cloth (about 1m x 45 cm) called 'goudrine' was used to protect the baby cot or the mattress of the enuresis child.</li> <li>- A wider model called "Goodree or goodrah" was used as eiderdown or quilt.</li> <li>- Goni cloth is used for layering (marcottage)</li> <li>- Damp goni bags enhance the growth of Soya germs used in traditional Chinese cuisine.</li> <li>- Goni bag hemmed with coloured cotton cloth was used as doormat, floor-mat or rug.</li> <li>- Children in olden days used goni for sack-racing in their schools' sports competition.</li> <li>- The bhandari (chef in biryani) used it as apron when handling the deg (large traditional cauldron) on flaming fire.</li> <li>- Mauritian proverb based on goni: "Goni vid pa kapav dibout" (Empty gunny bag cannot stand on its own); 'Reste dan sak goni' – living as man and wife outside marriage.</li> <li>- Goni bags filled with rice and found in Chinese shops were used by singers as an instrument producing a particular sound when elbows dug into it in a rhythmic pattern.</li> </ul> |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; Creole language is replete with words derived from aloes fibre making industry. Term 'Goni' is still used even though the sacks are no longer in existence.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin. It is not known whether the aloes plant was endemic or not but settlement of the island is recent so aloes fibre making is as old as the settlement since the Dutch period in 1638 onwards and also since the 18th century for rigging. The French brought another variety in 1790 and it has since grown in the wild.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                        |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;Aloe fibre workers and users.                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                        |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/ custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Mauritians in general                                                  |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                        |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Manufacturing skills within aloe fibre mills was transmitted to others within the factory until the 1980s. Today goods are produced manually or using imported goni in handicraft associations                                                                                                                           |                                                                        |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations-Sustainable development persons, Heritage practitioners                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                        |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                        |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;Cultivation of aloes needs to be revived but whether it is economically viable needs to be examined.                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                        |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;The plastic bag and jute bags have overtaken the goni .Authorities need to revive cultivation                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                        |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Can be revived as part of the Sustainable development programme of Government. It is still referred to in nostalgic way by Mauritians of a certain generation.                                                                                                                      |                                                                        |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;It is a durable product given its high tensile strength and is highly ecological. Moreover, when carrier-bags are made of goni they can be washed, dried and re-utilized several times until they become worn-out. They are considered non-carcinogenic, non-toxic and biodegradable. |                                                                        |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.None to our knowledge.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                        |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                        |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Few workers left with the memory of goni sack making.           |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | None.                                                                  |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;assadbhuglah@hotmail.com, Ministry of Economic PlanningJean Claude Fleury, Rue Chasteauneuf, Curepipe. Handicraft specialist                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                        |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | La Gaulette, Interview with B.E.G., 03 June 2008, CBOHA - BEG03_06_08. |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | 20082018                                                           |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | University of Mauritius                                                |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | National Heritage Fund                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES -Evenor de Chazal, De la Fibre d'Aloès et des récents perfectionnements apportés dans les procédés d'extraction. 1882. - La Gaulette, Interview with B.E.G., 03 June 2008, CBOHA - BEG03_06_08. - Phillip Galea, The Aloe Fibre Industry in Mauritius Illustrated, pp. 241-246. - Mémoires Historiques de B F Mahe de Labourdonnais, Peller &amp; Chatet. 1827. (Library of University of Michigan) p. 82. -Government of Mauritius, Report of the Truth and Justice Commission, Volume 1 (2011) |

| LOCAL CHAGOSSIAN PRODUCTION- FABRIKASION LOKAL SAGOSIEN |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                              |
|----------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                                            | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                              |
| 1.1                                                            | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Fabrikasion Local Sagosien                                                                            |
| 1.2                                                            | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Traditional Craftsmanship                                                                                    |
| 1.3                                                            | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Chagossians                                                                                                  |
| 1.4                                                            | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Mauritius formerly on Chagos Archipelagos                                                                    |
| 1.5                                                            | Short description The settlement in the Chagos Archipelago originates with the establishment of coconut plantations for copra production under French rule. The population of the Chagos islands expanded with the growth of the copra production and the fishing industry. During the half of the British colonisation, the copra production and the fishing industry were the main pillars of the local economy that diversified to include the production of guano, timber and tortoise as well. The local production included the following: Guano that was dug and exported to Mauritius and Seychelles. Delwil koko - Coconut oil production Bros koko - Coconut brush production Pwason sale - Salted fish production Zurit– Octopus fishing Disel – Salt making Savon– Soap making Lasir- Wax: that was made from lazig dimyel (Eng. Trans: honey) Dibwa- Wood: The wood Filao (Casuarina equisetifolia), Takamaka (Calophyllum inophyllum), bwad fe, bwa blan (Fire wood, white) were cut on Chagos Archipelago with lasi ek larpon ([manual] saw and [short]harpoon) |                                                                                                              |
| 2.0                                                            | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                              |
| 2.1                                                            | Associated tangible elements;The items produced and the tools used. The vestiges of the mills and plantations.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                              |
| 2.2                                                            | Associated intangible elements;Traditional knowledge associated to the making of candles and the vernacular terms.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                              |
| 2.3                                                            | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Oral transmission in Chagossian CreoleWritten transmission in French and English                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                              |
| 2.4                                                            | Perceived origin.European and local origin                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                              |
| 3.0                                                            | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                              |
| 3.1                                                            | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                              |
|                                                                | The elderly people who used to work in these production fields when they were living in Chagos have been displaced.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                              |
| 3.2                                                            | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Researchers and any other people who know about this craft either from observation or memories transmission. |
| 3.3                                                            | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;Cannot be accessed as the whole Archipelago is BIOT and is occupied by a US military base.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                              |
| 3.4                                                            | Modes of transmission;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                              |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                 |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | Oral and visual: Transmission of knowledge from one generation to another orally. Besides, nowadays, there are film documentaries on the making of the different types of traditional candles as well as pictures.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                 |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others). The Chagos Refugees Group that are one of the NGOs fighting for the rights of the displaced Chagossians. Local authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) that are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry.                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                 |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                 |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment; The forced displacement and resettlement of the Chagossians that led to changes in their lifestyle and occupational skills. They experienced acculturation in that they had to abandon and modify aspects of their individual and group traits and skills to adapt to the local skill demands and context of their host country. With industrialisation and technical evolution, techniques of production evolved and traditional skills became obsolete. Besides, Also owing to industrialisation, traditional raw materials have been replaced by modern ones. |                                                                                                                                 |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission; The young generation of Chagossian born in Mauritius has been socialised in modern capitalist values. For them, traditional knowledge and skills are outdated and they lack interest in the perpetuating their elders knowledge given that from their perspective they will earn nothing from them. Although they are present in the collective memory, the young Chagossians have adopted the local lifestyle and many old traditional skills and crafts are going into oblivion as there is lack of incentive to revive and perpetuate them.                       |                                                                                                                                 |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources; Some other raw materials are still available and the tools as well.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                 |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                 |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                 |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                 |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | ICH workshop organised on the 24 th October 2012.Focus group 9 th November 2012, Chagos Refugee Group |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | None                                                                                                                            |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation; Mr. Olivier BancoultMr. Rosemond SaminadenMr. France BertrandMrs. Rita Baptiste                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                 |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | University of Mauritius on the 24 th October 2012.Chagos Refugee Group 9 th October 2012              |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 20122018                                                                                                                    |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Sophie Le Chartier, Sharon NgNational Heritage Fund                                                                         |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS,ARCHIVES ICH workshop organised on the 24th October 2012. Focus group 9th November 2012, Chagos Refugee Group |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

| COCONUT ROPE MAKING- FASON RANZ BASTIN |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                              |
|-----------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                           | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                              |
| 1.1                                           | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Creole: Fason ranz BastinEnglish: Coconut rope making                                      |
| 1.2                                           | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Traditional craftsmanship                                                                                    |
| 1.3                                           | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Chagossians                                                                                                  |
| 1.4                                           | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Mauritius formerly on Chagos Islands                                                                         |
| 1.5                                           | Short descriptionBastin or rope was mainly made by women. Their daily task was to make six brooms or 30 fathoms of cordage. The rope was used to bind the straw roof-coverings of their huts. It was also used to tie together the mid-ribs of coconut fronds to make fencing.                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                              |
| 2.0                                           | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                              |
| 2.1                                           | Associated tangible elements;Coconut rope and the traditional tools used in the making of bastin                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                              |
| 2.2                                           | Associated intangible elements;Traditional knowledge associated to the making of coconut rope and vernacular terms                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                              |
| 2.3                                           | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Chagossian creole                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                              |
| 2.4                                           | Perceived origin.Not known, probably Malagasy.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                              |
| 3.0                                           | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                              |
| 3.1                                           | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;In Chagos they were women who had to do light duties due to pregnancy (Caboche: p. 6). People were specialised in this craft and who used coconut rope/ baskets for domestic and professional purposes. Many elderly people who although there were not practitioners, were knowledgeable in the making of coconut ropes. They are the last bearers of this knowledge. |                                                                                                              |
| 3.2                                           | Other participants (e.g., holders/ custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Researchers and any other people who know about this craft either from observation or memories transmission. |
| 3.3                                           | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;The Archipelago cannot be accessed as it is BIOT territory and is occupied by the US Military.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                              |
| 3.4                                           | Modes of transmission;Oral and visual: Transmission of knowledge from one generation to another orally.Documentaries on the making of the different types of coconut ropes as well as pictures.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                              |
| 3.5                                           | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).The Chagos Refugees Group is one of the NGOs fighting for the rights of the displaced Chagossians.Local authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry.                                   |                                                                                                              |
| 4.0                                           | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                              |
| 4.1                                           | Threats to the enactment;The forced displacement and resettlement of the Chagossians led to changes in lifestyle and occupational skills. They experienced acculturation as they had to abandon normal occupations and modify aspects of individual and group cultural traits to adapt to the culture                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                              |

|                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                              |
|---------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                 | of host country by adopting traits of Mauritian culture.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                              |
| 4.2                             | Threats to the transmission;The young generation of Chagossians born in Mauritius has been enculturated in the Mauritian cultures. Although there is an oral, visual and written transmission of traditional knowledge, yet, there is a lack of interest, among the young and him Chagossian society in general, in traditional practices and knowledge. Young Chagossians have adopted the local lifestyle and many old traditional skills and crafts are going into oblivion as there is lack of incentive to revive and perpetuate them.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                              |
| 4.3                             | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Coconut plants still abound in the Chagos Archipelago, but Chagossians have been moved elsewhere. Coconut plantations are almost inexistent in Mauritius.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                              |
| 4.4                             | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;Traditional coconut baskets are one of the tangible manifestations of intangible cultural heritage. The associated traditional knowledge and skills are an inherent component of the Chagossian culture.For an uprooted community, these are one of the elements that link the Chagossian community to their past and to their homeland. They are also indicators that they were an organised community with cultural, social and economic assets. Safeguarding both tangible and intangible elements can be an economic incentive to promote sustainable economic development by valorising traditional skilled manual sectors and encouraging skilled craftsmanship to earn a living from their skills and knowledge. |                                                                                                                                                              |
| 4.5                             | Safeguarding measures in place.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                              |
| 5.0                             | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                              |
| 5.1                             | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Focus group discussion, Chagos Refugees Group, 6 th November 2012Focus group discussion, Chagos Refugee Group, 12 th November 2012 |
| 5.2                             | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | None                                                                                                                                                         |
| 5.3                             | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Mrs. Rita BaptisteMrs. LegentilMrs. Ailine Talate                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                              |
| 5.4                             | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 06.11.2012 at the Chagos Refugees Centre, Pointe aux Sables12.11.2012 at the Chagos Refugees Centre, Pointe aux Sables                                   |
| 5.5                             | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 15.11.20122018                                                                                                                                           |
| 5.6                             | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Sophie Le Chartier, Sharon NgNational Heritage Fund                                                                                                      |
| 6.0                             | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVESFocus group discussion, Chagos Refugees Group, 6 th November 2012.Focus group discussion, Chagos Refugee Group, 12 th November 2012.Paul Caboche, The Islands as I Knew Them Chagos 1933 – 1942, Chagos Conservation Trust, 2005.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                              |
| CANDLE MAKING-FASON RANZ LABUZI |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                              |
| 1.0                             | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                              |
| 1.1                             | Name of the element, as used by                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Creole: Fason ranz Labuzi                                                                                                                                    |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                              |
|-----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | English: Candle making                                                                                |
| 1.2 | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Traditional craftsmanship                                                                                    |
| 1.3 | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Chagossians                                                                                                  |
| 1.4 | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Mauritius formerly on Chagos Archipelago                                                                     |
| 1.5 | Short description                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                              |
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                              |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements;Candles and tools used in making candles                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                              |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements;Traditional knowledge associated to the making of candles and the vernacular terms                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                              |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Chagossian creole                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                              |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin.European                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                              |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                              |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;People specialised in this craft and people who used candles. There are many elderly people who although not practitioners, they were knowledgeable in the making of traditional candles. They are the last bearers of this knowledge.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                              |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Researchers and any other people who know about this craft either from observation or memories transmission. |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;The Archipelago cannot be accessed as it is a BIOT and is occupied by the US Army.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                              |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Oral and visual: Transmission of knowledge from one generation to another orally. There are documentaries on the making of different types of traditional candles as well as pictures.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                              |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).The Chagos Refugees Group that is one of the NGOs fighting for the rights of the displaced Chagossians. Local authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry.                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                              |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                              |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;The forced displacement and resettlement of the Chagossians that led to changes in their lifestyle and occupational skills. They experienced acculturation in that they had to abandon and modify aspects of their individual and group cultural traits to adapt to the culture of their host country by adopting traits of Mauritian cultures.There are many homemade candles that are available on the market but the technique used is different from that of traditional candles made in the Chagos. Owing to industrialisation, traditional candles have given way to modern mass produced candles. |                                                                                                              |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;The young generation of Chagossian born in Mauritius has been enculturated in Mauritian culture. Although there is an oral, visual and written transmission of traditional knowledge, yet, there is a lack of interest, among the young and society in general, in traditional practices and knowledge. Young Chagossians have adopted the local lifestyle and many traditional skills and crafts are going into oblivion as there is lack of incentive to revive and perpetuate                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                              |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                              |
|-----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | them.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                              |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                              |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;The associated traditional knowledge and skills are an inherent component of the Chagossian culture capital.For an uprooted community, these are one of the elements that link the Chagossian community to their past and to their homeland. They are also indicators that they were an organised community with cultural, social and economic assets. Safeguarding both the tangible and intangible elements can also be seen as an economic incentive to promote sustainable economic development by valorising traditional skilled manual sectors and encouraging skilled craftsmanship to earn a living from their skills and knowledge. |                                                                                                                                                              |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                              |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                              |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Focus group discussion, Chagos Refugees Group, 6 th November 2012Focus group discussion, Chagos Refugee Group, 12 th November 2012 |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | None                                                                                                                                                         |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Mr. Rosemond SaminadenMrs. Rita Baptiste                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                              |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 06.11.2012 at the Chagos Refugees Centre, Pointe aux Sables12.11.2012 at the Chagos Refugees Centre, Pointe aux Sables                                   |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 15.11.20122018                                                                                                                                           |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Sharon NgNational Heritage Fund                                                                                                                          |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVESFocus group discussion, Chagos Refugees Group, 6 th November 2012Focus group discussion, Chagos Refugee Group, 12 th November 2012                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                              |

| AGALEAN USE OF COCONUT-ITILIZASION KOKO AGALEEN |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                           |
|--------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------|
| 1.0                                                    | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                           |
| 1.1                                                    | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Itilizasion koko Agaleen  |
| 1.2                                                    | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Traditional Craftsmanship |
| 1.3                                                    | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Agalean                   |
| 1.4                                                    | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Agalega                   |
| 1.5                                                    | Short description Out of the coconut, two products are made in Agalega: copra and oil (deluil koko) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Copra</li> </ul> The man harvested and peeled the coconut. They had to harvest some 500 coconuts per day that they had to give to the women dan Karo (it was a platform where women worked) by latest ten o'clock in the morning. Each woman had a ross Maurice (a stone) and a knife to dehusk and cut the coconut and to place them on the shelves known as lor volan. They had a minimum of 500 coconuts to prepare per day. There was a tunnel and at its end they lit a fire and the fume passed by the tunnel into the room to dehumidify the coconut. Copra is the name given to the dried kernel. Sometimes they displayed the coconut in the sun to let it dry. Copra was exported to Seychelles and for local use but nowadays it is not exported anymore. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Delwil koko: coconut oil</li> </ul> They made coconut oil from Copra. In the moulin (mill) they crushed the dried kernel to make crude coconut oil. Long-ago, the millstone was operated by horse power. The horses were harnessed to the fles (wood handles) and when horses disappeared from the local scene, the mill was hand powered. Both men and women turned the millstone. They collected the crude coconut oil on a large plate that passed in a tube into a drums that were inside a magazin (store) located some 50 metres from the mill. The residue of the copra was called puna. Now the mill is mechanised. It is operated by a machine that uses either diesel or petrol or coconut oil. Crude coconut oil was produced for domestic use and was exported to Mauritius to be used in cosmetic products, e.g., for hair treatment and in the making of cream. |                           |
| 2.0                                                    | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                           |
| 2.1                                                    | Associated tangible elements; The raw materials and tools used for making these products, the vestiges of the place where these items were produced and the tools used are still available: Paswar (sieve): it consisted of a natural sieve made from the tami koko (a Seychellois word that means coconut sieve). The tami koko was the part of the coconut envelope that is similar to a pass thé. The mill where coconut oil was made was located in the South of the island but now it is in the North. Ross Maurice: basalt stone imported from Mauritius as the Islands are entirely made of coral limestone.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                           |
| 2.2                                                    | Associated intangible elements; Associated knowledge and skills as well as the dexterity required. The vernacular terms as well constitute intangible heritage. The making of copra and coconut oil is still alive in the memory of elderly people because they worked in the coconut plantation and in the copra manufacture.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                           |
| 2.3                                                    | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; Oral transmission in Agalean Creole Written transmission in English and French                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                           |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 2.4 | Perceived origin.Unknown                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;The elderly people and the Agaleans who continue to work in the coconut plantations.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Researchers who studied the Agalean society and former colonial powers have archived the documents pertaining to Agalega.The families of the former colonisers and administrators who lived on the island and that have compiled private archives. |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Oral transmission: knowledge was transmitted across generations.Written transmission: technical reports and correspondences written on the local economy in the island dependencies including Agalega but these have to be inventoried.There are travellers and missionaries who went to Agalega and wrote ethnographic details about the island.                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Outer Islands Development Corporation - OIDCLocal authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry.                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;The traditional coconut oil production has given way to modern production for exportation to Mauritius but the yield is low. Technological improvement has brought changes to local production technique with traditional manual jobs giving way to the use of production machines.These traditional occupations gradually become obsolete with Agalegans being more dependent on consumption of foreign goods. Many have migrated to Mauritius to find employment and few people continue to produce what they need. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;There is limited transmission of memories and knowledge to the young generation since these knowledge and skills are considered obsolete. There is lack of interest among the young people to safeguard these memories. Besides, the migration of Agaleans to Mauritius has led to an erosion of traditional skills and knowledge.The young generation of Agaleans born in Mauritius has become enculturated and socialised in the Mauritian cultural systems.                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;See section 2.1                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;The island was isolated. They were producing what they needed for personal consumption and for export. Without such knowledge and skills, people would not have developed the local economic and social system and adapt to the harsh living conditions.There is increasing awareness about the imperative to use renewable and biodegradable fuel                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                           |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | sources for sustainable development. These traditional knowledge and skills for making copra and coconut oil and the raw material used are environmental friendly and constitute potential resources for the island and thus they should be preserved and transmitted.                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                           |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                           |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                           |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | ICH workshop organised on the 24 th October 2012.                                                              |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | None                                                                                                                      |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Mrs Yéline PolayMr Hervé Sylva                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                           |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 24.10.2012, University of Mauritius, Reduit14.11.2012, Phone interview19.11.2012, University of Mauritius, Reduit |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 19.11.20122018                                                                                                        |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Sophie Le Chartier, Sharon NgNational Heritage Fund                                                                   |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- NHF/UOM/WS01/24.10.12</li> <li>- Phone interview with Mr. Jasmin, from Agalega, conducted on the 14th November 2012.</li> <li>- Working session with Mrs. Yéline Poulay and Mr. Hervé Sylva, 19th November 2012, University of Mauritius</li> </ul> |                                                                                                                           |

| BLACKSMITHING- FASON FER FORZRI |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                           |
|----------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------|
| 1.0                                    | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                           |
| 1.1                                    | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Fason fer forzri   |
| 1.2                                    | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Traditional craftsmanship |
| 1.3                                    | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Agaleans                  |
| 1.4                                    | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Agalega                   |
| 1.5                                    | Short description In Agalega, the blacksmith was the ironsmith as well; he was an important person on the island as he was not only the tool maker but also the one who made the cart wheels, horses' shoes, decorative and functional objects and repaired the carts. For example, he made the fishermen and other craftsmen tools. There were two boys (apprentices) who were employed by the island administration to help the blacksmith. He made all the tools and utensils that people needed such as Kouto dekoke (dehusking knife) Sabr koko (a sword with a long beak used by men to collect coconuts) Pike (an iron peg mounted on a wooden handle used for dehusking coconuts). The iron was heart-shaped. Labati (A scythe that women used to cut grass) Larap koko (Coconut grater) Arozwar (watering can) Bake (bucket) Kitchen utensils Klou (nails for marine carpenters) Kramp (clamps used by carpenters in the construction of houses) Grat (rake) Pios (pickaxe) Lafouinn (harpoon) Enn klou (it is a special harpoon similar to a single barb harpoon with twin wings for capturing tortoises) Tate (it is a thin iron bar with a V-shape end that was used to draw octopus out of their coral habitat) La bit damaraz (boat mooring bitt) Lakol Takamaka (The blacksmith made his own glue from the Takamaka tree (Calophyllumtacamahaca). He [saigne] makes incisions in the bark of the tree to collect the sap. He mixed it with kalipi gelatine found in the tortoise shell) and cooked the mixture in the shell to make glue. There was a charcoal fire to heat the metal until it softened and then using an anvil, he hammered the metal to shape it and forge a tool or other objects. Forging and casting were the two main metalworking techniques. |                           |
| 2.0                                    | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                           |
| 2.1                                    | Associated tangible elements: Tools used in the forge : Lamas (sledge hammer) Enklm (anvil)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                           |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|-----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | Gro marto (big hammer) Kompa (Compass) Rechaud (stove where they lit fire) Soufle (bellows for blowing air on to a fire and to burn charcoal) Fer a souse (soldering iron) Gros Siso (Scissors to cut iron-sheets) Ti sizo (Chisel) Stencil to make moulds of different sizes and shapes such as bucket, watering can, container and other utensils. A half-cut drum containing water Some of the forged and handmade tools can still be seen in Museums and private collections in Mauritius. There are Agalean relics that can still be founded in some houses and on the island. For example: the vestiges of colonial infrastructures and these buildings are part of the tangible architectural heritage. The metal work for the building of these old infrastructures was done by the blacksmiths. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements; Traditional knowledge, methods and skills associated have been passed on across generations. Historical records, ethnographic narratives and official reports [census reports] date this craft back to colonial period indicating that this knowledge and skills have been passed on across generations until the early 20th Century. The vernacular terms as well constitute traditional knowledge.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; Oral transmission Agalean Creole Written transmission in English and French.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin. When the Indian indentured labourers came to Agalega they selected the skilled workers to work as labourer. The indentured labourers transmitted their knowledge to the Agaleans.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.; There were two blacksmiths and each had two apprentices to assist them. There are no blacksmiths in Agalega nowadays but there are Agaleans who migrated to Mauritius that are knowledgeable in this traditional job. The first blacksmith in Agalean was Mr. Leo Gaiki, grandfather of Leon Henry on his mother's side.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Researchers who studied the Agalean society and former colonial powers have archived documents pertaining to Agalega. The families of the former colons and administrators that lived on the island and that have compiled private archives. |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it; None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission; The Agaleans learnt this knowledge and acquired these skills from the skilled Indian indentured labourers that came to Agalega. This knowledge was transmitted orally. When the indentured labourers left, the blacksmiths transmitted their knowledge to their apprentices. There are travellers and missionaries that went to Agalega and that wrote ethnographic writings on the island. Correspondences and reports by administrators and colonial officers constitute written transmission. An in-depth documentary research has to be undertaken.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                     |
|-----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Outer Island Development CorporationLocal authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry.British and French national archives where documentations pertaining to colonial times are preserved.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                     |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                     |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;Long ago the Agalean lived a semi-sustainable lifestyle, producing their basic necessities and importing goods that they could not produce from Mauritius and Seychelles. Following independence and decolonisation, their lifestyle and consumption patterns changed. Nowadays, they are more dependent on goods imported from Mauritius. Given that all the working and domestic tools and utensils are imported from Mauritius and traditional occupational patterns and transportation have changed, in the same line, blacksmith became an obsolete job.The ‘jack of all trade’ has replaced the blacksmith whereby there are people that are still knowledgeable in traditional knowhow, yet they are not specialists.                                |                                                                     |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;There was not family transmission in that it was the administration that identified the children who would assist the blacksmith. However, there was a generational transmission in that the blacksmith transmitted his knowledge to the apprentices who worked with him.Nowadays there are no blacksmiths because the Agaleans are more and more dependent on the market economy; they import most of their basic goods from Mauritius. Besides with mechanisation there is no need for a blacksmith since traditional tools have given way to machine and aluminium materials.Although there are no blacksmiths and there has been no family transmission (father to son transmission), yet this craft is still present in the collective memory. |                                                                     |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;See section 2.1                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                     |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;The Blacksmith was a component of local domestic and occupational landscape. During colonial times, the latter was at the centre of economic and social life since without his knowledge and skills; people would not have had the necessary tools and material to develop the island. They were indispensable for the social, economic and infrastructural development of Agalega and subsequently Mauritius.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                     |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                     |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                     |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | ICH workshop University of Mauritius, 24 th October 2012 |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | None                                                                |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Mr. Emmanuel JasminMrs Yéline PolayMr Hervé Sylva                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                     |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                           |
|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | 24.10.2012, University of Mauritius, Reduit14.11.2012, Phone interview19.11.2012, University of Mauritius, Reduit |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | 19.11. 20122018                                                                                                       |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Sophie Le Chartier , Sharon NgNational Heritage Fund                                                                  |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- NHF/UOM/WS01/24.10.12</li> <li>- Phone interview with Mr. Jasmin, from Agalega, conducted on the 14th November 2012.</li> <li>- Working session with Mrs. Yéline Polay and Mr. Hervé Sylva, 19th November 2012, University of Mauritius.</li> </ul> |                                                                                                                           |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0 | MAKING FISH TRAPS- FASON RANZ KAZIE                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|     | IDENTIFICATION OF ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 1.1 | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Creole: Fason ranz kazieEnglish: Making fish traps                                                                                                                                                                                     |
| 1.2 | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Maritime Crafts                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 1.3 | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Mauritians, Chagossian                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 1.4 | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Mauritius (Fishing villages of Le Morne, Baie du Cap, Tamarin, La Gaulette on the Black River coast; Mahebourg, Poste de Flacq Trou d'Eau Douce in the East and Grand Gaube, Grand Baie, Poudre d'Or in the north) and formerly on Chagos Islands |
| 1.5 | Short description                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements;FishWooden boats used for fishingOther traditional implements such as hooks and lines, basket traps, large nets, gill nets, canard nets, cast nets and harpoons.                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements;History of slavery in Mauritius.The desire for autonomy led freed slaves to a life on the coast, far from sugar plantations. Fishing and making nets and traps form part of the daily life of these coastal communities for generations.Rituals associated with fishing are described in Domain IV |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Mauritian CreoleOral transmission in Chagossian CreoleWritten transmission in French and English                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin.It is understood that techniques of fishing line and trap construction is a mixture of French, Malagasy and African traditions. All groups have been present since the beginning of settlement of the island since 1720s.European and Afro-Malagasy                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;List of Pirogue makers                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Families of fishermen                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |  |
|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|
|     | custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |  |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |  |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Generational                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |  |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others). Albion Fisheries Research Centre Ministry of Fisheries Mauritius Fishermen's Co-operative Federation Ltd Ministry of Environment &amp; Sustainable Development Mauritius Marine Conservation Society (NGO) The Chagos Refugees Group is one of the NGOs fighting for the rights of the displaced Chagossians. Local authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Ministry of Fisheries, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |  |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |  |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment; Youth are not interested in making their own fishing nets and prefer to buy them. Thus although training in building pirog or making fishing nets may be dispensed formally, it is not clear how many will opt for this unless there are employment prospects in it or brings as much revenue as working as skippers where there is direct contact with tourists who pay handsomely during fishing expeditions and use modern fishing nets and methods. Environmental issues: Data collected at fish landing stations around Mauritius have shown a gradual decline in the overall landings for artisanal fishery. However, due to the over-exploitation of our lagoon resources, it cannot be attributed directly as an effect of climate change. Traditional fishing is a dying industry and has given way to modern fishing. Similarly the traditional tools have become outdated and have been replaced by traditional fishing equipment's made with modern material. There are few people who continue to make traditional equipment's either as occupation or for personal use as the demand for these skills is almost inexistent. Hence, the making of traditional fishing tools is gradually disappearing with the elderly generation. |  |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission; Youth are not interested in making their own fishing nets and prefer to buy them. There is limited transmission of these traditional knowledge and skills that are still present in the collective and individual memories of the elderly people. There is no incentive for transmission because these skills are not in line with modern social and economic criteria. While long ago there was a generational transmission of these skills and knowledge across family lines, this transmission is now inexistent because either there is a lack of interest among the young generation to safeguard these practices and knowledge or the elders do not want the future generations to get trapped in this occupation because there is no living to earn from it and it is an occupation which is undervalorised.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |  |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources; Available                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |  |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;Autonomy of people and preservation of Mauritian fishing heritage are desired among Mauritians.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | University of Mauritius Community WorkshopOctober 2012; 2 nd session : 8 th November 2012Informants in 2008 Village of La Gaulette, Coteau Raffin Le Morne |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | A few informants wish to remain anonymous.                                                                                                                                               |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Maya de Salle-Essoo                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 2008 South west of island; 2012                                                                                                                                                          |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 7.11.122018                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | University of MauritiusNational Heritage Fund                                                                                                                                        |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Interviews carried out in the village of LA Gaulette and Coteau Raffin and Le Morne, in particular with G.L., 29 February 2008, CBOHA – GL29_02_08.</li> <li>- Anthropological Survey of La Gaulette and Coteau Raffin, Unpublished Report UoM, 2008.</li> <li>- Julie Cornec MA Dissertation on Fishing Communities in South West Mauritius</li> </ul> |                                                                                                                                                                                          |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                       |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0 | BOAT CONSTRUCTION- FASON RANZ PIROG                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                       |
|     | IDENTIFICATION OF ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                       |
| 1.1 | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Creole: Fason ranz PirogEnglish: Boat Construction                         |
| 1.2 | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Maritime Crafts                                                                       |
| 1.3 | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Mauritians                                                                            |
| 1.4 | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Mauritius (La Gaulette, Coteau Raffin, Le Morne, Baie du Cap, Mahebourg, Grand Gaube) |
| 1.5 | Short description Boats of different shapes and sizes existed in Mauritius such as the pirog, the peniche and coasters. Only the pirog has survived. Pirogs (Boats)- In the past pirog was propelled by sails. Today, engines are used and motorboats have been introduced. The pirogues were made primarily of wood, then with iron or steel frames but wood was still used for planks. Later the whole structure was made of steel or iron wire. Gradually, steel boats replaced wooden boats. From frames to plating these boats were made of steel. In the mid-20th century, aluminium boats became popular and later glass-reinforced plastic, more commonly known as fibreglass gained popularity. Though more expensive, fibreglass boats are known for their structural strength as they do not rust, corrode or rot. The popularity of fibreglass has spelt the death for wooden boats, but the doyen of marine carpenters of Coteau Raffin, G.L. is philosophical about it: ‘[...] Bann peser inn al fer bato fib, mo pa donn zot tor mo donn zot rezon, malgre mo dan le metie konstrir bato an bwa [...] zot tou dir bato fib pli bon. Zot ena rezon [...]’ (Eng. trans. ‘[...] the fishermen have made fibreglass boats, I don’t blame them, even though this is my profession, making wood boats. They all say that fibreglass boats are best. They are right [...]’). Type of wood: Generally meranti wood is used for the construction of boats because it is a wood that can be easily given a curved shape. Structure: The structure of the craft is built first: The santral (keel) is the first part of the craft that the carpenter constructs because it is the spine of the structure. It is levelled up and joined with the two extremities: laplon (stern) at the front and the bow at the back. The manmb (frame) of the boat are placed and fixed on the keel. The four central ribs (metres) are the first to be placed. They determine the calibre and the width of the boat. It is also the widest part of the boat. These are reinforced by doubling them with a varang (rib). Then the two extremities are built: the front side, the letrav (bow) and the back side, the tablo (transom). The first planks of the hull to be placed are the two at the bottom of the hull, near the keel. Then one or two planks of the upper planking, named karo, each side of the hull. The hull is completed by putting lis (taffrail), planks all along the boat which are fixed to the ribs. This action is named borde or to make the bordaz (bordered). The joints between each plank are filled in by caulking. The interior of the boat is then made: the lacher (keelson) is placed to maintain the boat, the |                                                                                       |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |  |
|-----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|
|     | benches are placed, the take dekout (clam cleat), tiak (deck), letanbo (sternpost), to name a few. Painting: Painting usually consists of one or two coats of primer (primer) followed by a coat of paint (finis) inside and outside the boat. Assembly: The different parts of the craft are nailed together. The nails used have to be galvanised nails preferably. In the past, these typical pirogues had sails. The sails were made with a type of canvas known as latwal ekri (raw linen). The fishermen cut the panels of the sail which were then sewn together by the dressmakers to give to the sail its ‘airfoil shape’. To cut the panels, the fishermen lay the cloth flat on the floor with the help of pegs to fix the extremities. The curved surface of the sails traps the air and propels the boats.                                                                                                                     |  |
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |  |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements; Meranti wood, compass (konpa), ruler (lareg), saw (lasi), plane (rabo), nails, crankshaft (vilbrekin), hammer (marto) wood press (pres). Linen sails, paint, primer.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |  |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements; The fishing community has developed its own language: vernacular names exist for different parts of a boat: Ban de mizenn (foremast bench); Bopre bowsprit; Bordaz bordered; Fog or sea fog (jib); gouvernay (rudder); Karo: the upper planking of the hull; La bar tiller; La kok hull; Lacher keelson; Laplon stern; Letanbo sternpost; Letrav bow; Lis taffrail; Logano: ring placed at bow of the boat use to hang up the anchor; Ma mast; Manmb or kot frame; Metres the central siding of the structure of the hull; Santral keel; Souk: kind of ring fixed on the bow used to put the jib; Tablo transom; Take dekout or lekout clam cheat; Tiak deck or tillac (Fr); Varang: the rib band that reinforces the frame; Verb clam cheat situated at the front side of the boat. |  |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; Mauritian Creole                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |  |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin. Building techniques appear to be French but more research needed.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |  |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |  |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.; Knowledge of making boats Labonne family of La Gaulette - retired.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |  |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |  |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |  |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission: Generational.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |  |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others). Fishing Community Heritage Organisations                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |  |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |  |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |  |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                          |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | Youth not interested.Fibreglass boat available.No promotion of wooden boat making even for artisanal or tourist attraction for small manufacturers.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;Youth no longer interested because of no visible benefits, material or intangible.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Available                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;Viable for tourist, heritage and artisanal use.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | University of Mauritius Community WorkshopOctober 2012; 2 nd session : 8 th November 2012Informants in 2008 Village of La Gaulette, Coteau Raffin Le Morne |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | A few informants wish to remain anonymous.                                                                                                                                               |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Dr. Maya de Salle-Essoo                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 2008 South west of island; 2012                                                                                                                                                          |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 7.11.122018                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | University of MauritiusNational Heritage Fund                                                                                                                                        |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES - Interviews carried out in the village of LA Gaulette and Coteau Raffin and Le Morne, in particular with G.L., 29 February 2008, CBOHA – GL29_02_08.- Historical and Anthropological Survey of La Gaulette/Coteau Raffin, University of Mauritius, 2008.Commissioned by Corniche Bay IRS. Consists of full description of work of marine carpenter with colour photos-Interview with Mr Julienne, Mechanic working on boats during trip from Bel More to Port Louis. 30 October2012.http://www.patrimoineenperil.mu/inventaire/item.php?itemId=213http://www.patrimoineenperil.mu/inventaire/article.php?artId=35http://www.patrimoineenperil.mu/inventaire/article.php?artId=36 |                                                                                                                                                                                          |

| MARINE CARPENTER -SARPENTIER MARINE |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                             |
|--------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                        | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                             |
| 1.1                                        | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Sarpentier marine - Marine carpenter                                 |
| 1.2                                        | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Traditional Maritime Craft                                                  |
| 1.3                                        | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | Mauritians                                                                  |
| 1.4                                        | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | Mauritius (La Gaulette, Coteau Raffin, Mahebourg, Grand Gaube, Baie du Cap) |
| 1.5                                        | Short description Mauritius being an island, maritime activities have always played a huge role in the social and economic life of the country. Boats were used not only for communication with the rest of the world but also internally as goods were transported to Port Louis the capital and back. Fishing boats also needed continuous maintenance and repair. Marine carpentry is one of those activities that have existed since Mauritius became settled and boat and ship building and repair became part of the economic and cultural landscape. It has engendered its own unique vocabulary and traditions which are transmitted from generation to generation in families. Wooden boats being now gradually replaced by fibreglass boats, and computerised engines requires that young people find this traditional occupation obsolete and opt for other trades and occupations. When a boat owner asks for the services of the marine carpenter, the carpenter brings the boat ashore to let it dry. A log is used to lever the boat and two rocks are placed under the boat to support it. The marine carpenter then identifies the repairs that are required. Rotten planks may need to be replaced; rusty parts and joints need treatment. To inspect the planks and joints he uses a tool called a hook (krok) which is a small tool with a handle and a hook at the other end. Cost estimates of the repairs are made and approved. The marine carpenter starts his work which he terms rakomode (to mend). He first pulls out the rotten planks to avoid spread of rot and cleans the joints. Rotten parts are removed with a sizo galfa (a kind of wood chisel). When all the rotten parts of the boat have been removed, he replaces the old planks by new ones. If the boat owner wishes to, the planks can be treated with a chemical substance known as kreolinn (Creolin) to protect the wood. Then he fills in the notches. This technique known as the galfataz (caulking) which consists in placing a strip of white lead in the length of each notch (a cotton wick such as those used for oil lamps) with the sizo galfa. Putty is spread over the strip. The putty was made by the marine carpenter which is a mixture of ordinary wood putty, blanc d’Espagne (marlstone) and oil paint at a certain degree. The know-how was acquired with practice. The putty is applied with a putty knife (kouto mastik). This is to waterproof the joints of the boat. The new planks have to be worked and shaped. He has to measure the dimension of the plank with a compass or dividers (konpa) and a ruler (lareg), cut the board with a saw (lasi), plane it (rabo) and nail the new planks together on the boat structure using first, a crankshaft (vilbrekin) to make the holes and a hammer (marto) to drive the nails completely in. The planks have to be pressed firmly together (pres). After the repairs, the marine carpenter may paint the new parts if the boat owner wishes it. |                                                                             |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
|-----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements;Traditional tools, the piroque .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements;Vernacular names for the different parts of the boat and stages of repair e.g. Ban de mizenn (foremast bench; Bopre (bowsprit); Bordaz (bordered); Fog or sea fog (jib).Rituals associated with boat repair are discussed in Doman IV                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Mauritian Creole.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin.Boat building and repair techniques differ throughout the Indian Ocean and Europe and techniques, materials and tools in Mauritius have evolved over time out of a combination of these.                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;Marine carpenters are usually male and there are specialists located in many fishing and coastal villages, such as in La Gaulette and Coteau Raffin. For example, t Mr. Lamarque is considered the doyen in the south west of the island. |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/ custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | -                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;-None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;None.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).-Heritage institutions.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;Little state support given to traditional marine carpenters.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;All materials are available.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;Demand is decreasing in the population for such skills as fiberglass boats and alternative modes of transport are sought.                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.None to our knowledge.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                             |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Consent was obtained during the course of an inventory of cultural heritage undertaken in the villages of the south west of the island in 2008-9. Consent forms stored at the University of |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                          |
|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Mauritius.                                                                               |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Interview recording and transcript is available.Only initials of informant supplied. |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Maya de Salle Essoo and Sophie Le Chartier, both anthropologists attached to this project and to University of Mauritius.                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                          |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;29 February 2008, CBOHA – GL29_02_08.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                                          |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;2008.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                          |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by:University of Mauritius.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                          |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES -Historical and Anthropological Survey of La Gaulette/Coteau Raffin, University of Mauritius, 2008. Contains full descriptions of work of marine carpenter with colour photos -Interview with Mr Julienne, Mechanic working on boats during trip from Bel More to Port Louis. 30 October 2012. |                                                                                          |

| FISHING TECHNIQUES–FASON LAPES |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                           |
|---------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------|
| 1.0                                   | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                           |
| 1.1                                   | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Fason lapes        |
| 1.2                                   | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Traditional Craftsmanship |
| 1.3                                   | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Rodriguans                |
| 1.4                                   | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                | Rodrigues                 |
| 1.5                                   | Short description Various types of nets and baskets, hooks, boats and tools for repair exist. These are studied in greater detail under Domain IV Category Traditional fishing practices Traditional Fishing tools. In the past, tools were made in villages. Today, fishermen purchase tools from shops. These tools are made with artificial materials such as nylon and polyethylene. The traditional manufacture of tools will be described here as this is a dying craft. In most fishing villages, one person was known for making fishing tools. The fishermen placed their orders with him. The raw materials were obtained from the forests. The traditional tools were: oars, paddles, kobo, buoy, etc. A Kobo is a coconut cut in half and used to remove the water that has invaded the hull, and which could cause the boats to sink. A Boy (buoy) is a leash tied to a bamboo stick and to the nets which was used as buoy to locate the fishing nets in the sea. A Paddle is a small wooden roar used for pushing against the water. It consists of a handle at one end and of a blade at the other end. It was made in a light wood, such as telfair, tecoma or tatamaka to have a better floating. AFwinn (harpoon) is a long stick with a piece of metal with two hooks at the end that was used for example to fish on the reefs and to fish octopus. The Grif, a long stick with a curved fork at the end was used to collect algae used as bait in the fishnets and the Lagaf (gaff), a long stick with a sharp hooked piece of metal at the end used to place the stones inside the nets, were made by blacksmiths working for the sugar estate. Making a Golet The traditional fishing rod was made with a bamboo stick (preferably green bamboo which is flexible) 3-4m in length. The rod was made in the following way: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Scraping a bamboo stem removing the lateral shoots at the nodes and rough edges with a knife or any sharp tool to smoothen it and cutting off one end of the bamboo.</li> <li>2. Winding a nylon thread (of 4 mm) half around the length of the bamboo up to the cut end of the line. For deep sea fishing, the thread is tied one quarter of the length of the bamboo. A space of about 1 ½ inches is left between each curl for the fishing line to be sturdy. When the extremity of the line is reached, a knot is tied known as demi kle (overhand knot) and thread is wound tight round the end with a second knot.</li> <li>3. The thread is cut but the line has to be longer than the length of the stick. For deep sea fishing, the line has to be twice the length of the stick.</li> <li>4. Tying the fish hook with an overhand knot at the end of the line. The size of the fish hook</li> </ol> |                           |

|  |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|--|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|  | depends on the size of the fish the angler wishes to fish, for example, a hook number thirteen will be used to fish viel (grouper). The bait will be fixed to the hook and there are also different types of baits according to the different categories of fish. 5. The hook is hung to the gash to avoid hurting someone and the line wound around the stick to carry the fishing rod. The angler has only to unwind the line and fix his bait and then throw his line in the water. Making a kazie (fish trap) A kazie is a fish trap made of plaited mesh. In the past, the traps were made of bamboo strips but today galvanised wire is used instead. The diameter and the number of the meshes vary from five to twelve meshes of three to four centimetres wide. There are different kinds of fishing nets depending on, first, the species of fish the fisherman wants to catch and second, the fishing environment: whether it is for fishing in the lagoon or in the deep sea. In the lagoon traps were traditionally made with bamboo strips and for deep sea fishing the traps were made of metallic wire. Today, bamboo nets have disappeared. The nets are made with galvanised wires as, according to the fishermen, bamboo is difficult to find nowadays. The size of the traps varies. In the past the traps were smaller but because the fish were squeezed in the trap (kazie), larger ones are made today. The size of the trap depends on number of the octagonal-shape meshes and also on the size of the boat to transport the fishing traps. The law regulates the dimension of the mesh of a trap: meshes should be 3 to 4 cms in diameter so that small fish can pass easily through. The law prohibits fishermen from catching a fish which is less than ½ lbs. to allow breeding because the number of fishes has significantly diminished. The size of the trap is important; the fisherman should be able to tie the bait inside and to remove the fish from the kazie. The shape of the trap varies: The round traps are known as kazie ron or kazie barik and are used to catch pwason korn (Bluespine unicorn fish). Round traps are more recent and are not commonly found. The most commonly used and oldest fish traps are known as kazie plat (flat net) which is used to catch smaller fish like rouze (sidespot goatfish), kapitenn (spangled emperor), kato (blue-barred parrotfish). This was the traditional fish trap and in the past it was made with bamboo strips but they were fragile and smaller. Now they are more solid and are larger. Other types of fish traps are kazie san ke (traps without tails) or kazie demi ron (semi-circular traps), kazie an ker (heart-shaped traps), and a trap which had a T shape and sharp sides. The traditional knowledge of making fishing nets is on the brink of disappearing, as the traps are no longer used. Kazie ron-There are different methods for making a round trap. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. The fisherman knits two bowls (bol) term used to designate the bowl-shaped upper and lower parts of the trap of the same size and shape. The first bowl is used as a mould to knit the second one to ensure that the second bowl is of the same size and shape as the first one. Thus to maintain the shape of the bowl a frame in wood is temporarily placed inside the bowl. To knit the second bowl, it is placed on the mould and is tied to the wood structure for the bowl to have exactly the same size and shape as the mould. The last line of meshes of the two bowls is known as mandif. Two holes are made in each bowl on the opposite sides to allow the fishes to get inside the traps. These holes are known as lantre (entrance).</li> <li>2. The two knitted bowls are tied together by winding a steel wire between the mesh of each bowl alternately. This process is called rouste. The fish trap will be round shaped.</li> <li>3. A tunnel shaped part is placed inside the trap from one entrance to the other in such a way that the fish glide into the trap and once inside, cannot go out.</li> <li>4. Pieces of guava wood are tied inside up to the part named kole (collar). It acts as a frame for</li> </ol> |
|--|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |  |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|
|     | the trap to keep its shape and to reinforce it. Now the fish trap is ready to be used. Kazie plat- The technique for knitting a flat fishing trap is similar to the making of a round trap. It is only the shape of the trap which is different. The upper and lower parts of the trap are called plato (plate). A lateral part fixes the plates together and the two holes on both sides are connected by an entrance. Then the wood known as baton kazie (stick for the trap) that constitute the frame (kad) are fixed. This fish trap is made of about five to twelve meshes long. PrivyerLasenn (Fishing nets)Lalynn (Fishing line) Kazie' is a tool important for traditional fishermen in the country. 'Kazie' can be made of wires or bamboos. They are of different forms and types. Few fishermen know how to make these lockers to trap the fish. Attracted by the baits inside the trap, the fish makes its way into the trap through a tunnel which gets narrower. Once inside the trap, the fish cannot get out. The "Kazie" is placed at the entries of the pass of the reefs and in shallow water. A float attached to each fishing trap usually help to locate the trap, while seasoned fishermen rely on their memories and their own methods of identification. Some fishermen used to place several traps every day. Making the net as well require special techniques; a needle is used to tie nylon threads together Many women earning a living making lalign laloes. Steps: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- A bamboo stick is cut in half</li> <li>- It is used to split the aloes leaves and remove the fibre.</li> <li>- Fibre is washed and let to dry.</li> <li>- Then on their calf the women spin the thread to make fishing lines – the lalign.</li> </ul> Women sold the fishing lines to fishermen.Further research is required. |  |
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |  |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |  |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements; The traditional knowledge associated to the gathering of the raw materials (the plants to use, when and how they should be cut) and the making of the ropes. The vernacular terms used as well.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |  |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; Rodriguan Creole                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |  |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin. Unknown                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |  |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |  |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |  |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |  |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |  |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission; Oral transmission across generation and written transmission given that there are many reports that have were written on the economic and social situation in Rodrigues but these documents have to be inventoried.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |  |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |  |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                              |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------|
|     | Commission de Rodrigues Local authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry.                                    |                                              |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                              |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment; The introduction of modern ropes that are said to be stronger such as nylon.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                              |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                              |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                              |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements; Traditional craftsmanship is a viable source of income. It is an ecological and low-cost way of earning an income in time of crisis and subsequently of sustaining a living. They are solid and durable products that can be exported to Mauritius and can be sold on local markets as well. |                                              |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                              |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                              |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                              |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | None                                         |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation; Mr. Melchaide Prosper                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                              |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 21.11.12 at Pointe aux Sables,               |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 28.11.20122018                           |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Sophie Le ChartierNational Heritage Fund |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES UOMICH_MP001_A_SLC_PteauxSables_21.11.2012                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                              |

| MAKING JERRY CAN- RANZ JERIKAN |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|---------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                   | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 1.1                                   | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Ranz Jerikan – Making Jerry Can                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 1.2                                   | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Traditional Craftsmanship                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| 1.3                                   | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Agalean                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 1.4                                   | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Agalega                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 1.5                                   | Short descriptionJerikan (Jerry can) were also use as percussion instrument in Sega tambour .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 2.0                                   | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 2.1                                   | Associated tangible elements;The traditional instruments and the raw material used to make the instruments.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 2.2                                   | Associated intangible elements;The musical and dance performance. Men played instruments and women sang.The knowledge and skills associated to musical craft. In the past there was a generational transmission of these skills and knowledge but this transmission is almost inexistent. However, they are still present in the collective memory of the elderly people who are the guardians.The vernacular terms used to name the instruments and the material used.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 2.3                                   | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Oral transmission in Agalean CreoleWritten transmission in French and English                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 2.4                                   | Perceived origin.Violin, mandolin and accordion came from SeychellesHarmonica came from MauritiusBanjo, tambour and triangle are perceived to be of Afro-Malagasy origins.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 3.0                                   | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 3.1                                   | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;People specialised in musical craft and the musicians who play these instruments. For example:Mr. Leon Poulay used to make traditional Agalean tambour but he diedMr. Eldo Calapan once made a violin for Mrs. Poulay's father.Mr. Ange Paillet and a man named Papa Lainine played triangleA man named Ti Coque played accordionMr. Laval Henry and Mr. Michel Maurice used to play Harmonica. Mr. Reynald Moutou (he is dead), Mr. Joeclyn Agatine, Mr. Paul Agatine (who lives in Mauritius) and Mr. Robert Agatine (he started played as from 4 years of age) used to play the guitar.There are many elderly people who although there were not practitioners are knowledgeable in the making of these traditional instruments. They are the last bearers of this knowledge. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 3.2                                   | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Researchers, ethnomusicologists and any other people who know about this craft either from observation or memory transmission.There are also music lovers who have private archives that need to be inventoried.The families of the former colons and administrators that lived on the island and that have compiled private archives. |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Oral and visual: Transmission of knowledge from one generation to another either orally or through observation.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Outer Island Development Corporation - OIDCLocal authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;Long ago the Agaleans lived a semi-sustainable lifestyle, producing what they need. But nowadays they are more dependent on importation from Mauritius. Following transportation and communication advancements, cyclical movement between Mauritius and Agalega is recurrent and the Agaleans usually do their shopping in Mauritius; they are more and more dependent on market consumption.Some of these traditional music instruments are still used but the techniques for making them have changed. Owing to technological innovations the traditional musical craft has given way to modern techniques with the use of modern materials and modern designs.Agalean Traditional musical craft making has become obsolete following overreliance on Mauritian importations.                                                                                                                                                                                                      |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;The skills involved in crafting these instruments are as varied as the items themselves. While there are people that still know how to make traditional music instruments, yet, traditional musical craft is endangered since among the young generation there are few people that are ready to take over.There is limited transmission of the associated knowledge and skill because traditional craftsmen struggle to earn a descent a living and they do not want the future generation to face the same hardship.Globalisation and mass production are challenges to the survival of these traditional forms of craftsmanship. Modern musical instruments are gradually replacing these traditional crafts.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Refer to section 2.1                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;Musical craft is one of the expressions of traditional craftsmanship. The Agalean community like many other groups with a slave background has a rich musical history and traditional musical craft is one component of this history.The associated traditional knowledge and skills (as well as knowhow and abilities associated to traditional craftsmanship) are an inherent component of the Agalean cultural capital.For a migrant community, these are one of the elements that link the Agalean community to their past and to their homeland. They are also indicators that they were an organised community with cultural, social and economic assets. Safeguarding both the tangible and intangible elements can also be seen as an economic incentive to promote sustainable economic development by valorising traditional skilled manual sectors and encouraging skilled craftsmanship to earn a living from their skills and knowledge. |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                                            |
|-----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                            |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | None                                                                       |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Mr. Emmanuel JasminMrs Yéline PolayMr Hervé Sylva                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                            |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | 14.11.2012, Phone interview19.11.2012, University of Mauritius, Reduit |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 19.11.20122018                                                         |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Sophie Le ChartierSharon NgNational Heritage Fund                  |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Phone interview with Mr. Jasmin, from Agalega, conducted on the 14th November 2012.</li> <li>- Working session with Mrs. Yéline Polay and Mr. Hervé Sylva, 19th November 2012, University of Mauritius.</li> </ul> |                                                                            |

| MAKING TRIANGLE-FASON RANZ TRIANG |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                |
|------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1.0                                      | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 1.1                                      | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | Creole: Fason ranz TriangEnglish: Making Triangle                                                                                                                          |
| 1.2                                      | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Traditional Craftsmanship                                                                                                                                                      |
| 1.3                                      | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Agaleans                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 1.4                                      | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           | Agalega                                                                                                                                                                        |
| 1.5                                      | Short descriptionTriang (Triangle): it is a percussion instrument that belongs to the idiophone category. They used two triangles together that were made in the forge in Agalega with round iron bar. They drew a mould of the triangle on a plank placed nails that they heated and turned and shaped it with a pair of pliers.It is a triangular instrument that is held with the thumb to produce a stifled sound. The triangle is held fast with the palm of the hand and the inside of the triangle is hit with a rod.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 2.0                                      | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 2.1                                      | Associated tangible elements;The traditional instruments and the raw material used to make the instruments.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 2.2                                      | Associated intangible elements;The musical and dance performance. Men played instruments and women sang.The knowledge and skills associated to musical craft. In the past there was a generational transmission of these skills and knowledge but this transmission is almost inexistent. However, they are still present in the collective memory of the elderly people who are the guardians.The vernacular terms used to name the instruments and the material used.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 2.3                                      | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Oral transmission in Agalean CreoleWritten transmission in French and English                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 2.4                                      | Perceived origin.Violin, mandolin and accordion came from SeychellesHarmonica came from MauritiusBanjo, tambour and triangle are perceived to be of Afro-Malagasy origins.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 3.0                                      | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 3.1                                      | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;People specialised in musical craft and the musicians who play these instruments. For example:Mr. Leon Poulay used to make traditional Agalean tambour but he diedMr. Eldo Calapan once made a violin for Mrs. Poulay's father.Mr. Ange Paillet and a man named Papa Lainine played triangleA man named Ti Coque played accordionMr. Laval Henry and Mr. Michel Maurice used to play Harmonica. Mr. Reynald Moutou (he is dead), Mr. Joeclyn Agatine, Mr. Paul Agatine (who lives in Mauritius) and Mr. Robert Agatine (he started played as from 4 years of age) used to play the guitar.There are many elderly people who although there were not practitioners are knowledgeable in the making of these traditional instruments. They are the last bearers of this knowledge. |                                                                                                                                                                                |
| 3.2                                      | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Researchers, ethnomusicologists and any other people who know about this craft either from observation or memory transmission.There are also music lovers who have private |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                 |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | archives that need to be inventoried.The families of the former colons and administrators that lived on the island and that have compiled private archives. |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;None                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Oral and visual: Transmission of knowledge from one generation to another either orally or through observation.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Outer Island Development Corporation - OI DCLocal authorities and institutions such as the Ministry of Arts and Culture, Small and Medium Enterprise Development Authority (SMEDA) and Small Enterprise to Help Development for All (SEHDA) are involved in the promotion of local cultures and knowledge and the local craft industry.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;Long ago the Agaleans lived a semi-sustainable lifestyle, producing what they need. But nowadays they are more dependent on importation from Mauritius. Following transportation and communication advancements, cyclical movement between Mauritius and Agalega is recurrent and the Agaleans usually do their shopping in Mauritius; they are more and more dependent on market consumption.Some of these traditional music instruments are still used but the techniques for making them have changed. Owing to technological innovations the traditional musical craft has given way to modern techniques with the use of modern materials and modern designs.Agalean Traditional musical craft making has become obsolete following overreliance on Mauritian importations.                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;The skills involved in crafting these instruments are as varied as the items themselves. While there are people that still know how to make traditional music instruments, yet, traditional musical craft is endangered since among the young generation there are few people that are ready to take over.There is limited transmission of the associated knowledge and skill because traditional craftsmen struggle to earn a decent a living and they do not want the future generation to face the same hardship.Globalisation and mass production are challenges to the survival of these traditional forms of craftsmanship. Modern musical instruments are gradually replacing these traditional crafts.                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Refer to section 2.1                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;Musical craft is one of the expressions of traditional craftsmanship. The Agalean community like many other groups with a slave background has a rich musical history and traditional musical craft is one component of this history.The associated traditional knowledge and skills (as well as knowhow and abilities associated to traditional craftsmanship) are an inherent component of the Agalean cultural capital.For a migrant community, these are one of the elements that link the Agalean community to their past and to their homeland. They are also indicators that they were an organised community with cultural, social and economic assets. Safeguarding both the tangible and intangible elements can also be seen as an economic incentive to promote sustainable economic development by valorising traditional skilled manual sectors and encouraging |                                                                                                                                                                 |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                            |
|-----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | skilled craftsmanship to earn a living from their skills and knowledge.                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                            |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                            |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                            |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                            |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | None                                                                       |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Mr. Emmanuel JasminMrs Yéline PolayMr Hervé Sylva                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                            |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 14.11.2012, Phone interview19.11.2012, University of Mauritius, Reduit |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 19.11.20122018                                                         |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | Sophie Le ChartierSharon NgNational Heritage Fund                  |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES- Phone interview with Mr. Jasmin, from Agalega, conducted on the 14 th November 2012.- Working session with Mrs. Yéline Polay and Mr. Hervé Sylva, 19 th November 2012, University of Mauritius. |                                                                            |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                           |
|-----|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------|
|     | MAKINGDIATONIC ACCORDION- RANZAKORDEON DIATONIK                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                           |
| 1.0 | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                           |
| 1.1 | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | Ranz Akordeon Diatonik    |
| 1.2 | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | Traditional Craftsmanship |
| 1.3 | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | Rodriguans                |
| 1.4 | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | RodriguesMauritius    |
| 1.5 | Short description A diatonic button accordion (DBA), or melodeon is a member of the free-reed aerophone family of musical instruments. It is a type of button accordion on which the melody-side keyboard contains one or more rows of buttons, with each row producing the notes of a single diatonic scale. The buttons on the bass-side keyboard are most commonly arranged in pairs, with one button of a pair sounding the fundamental of a chord and the other the corresponding major triad (or, sometimes, a minor triad). |                           |
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                           |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements; The musical instruments and pictures of the instruments.Materials and tools used for the making of the instruments can still be found. There are also documentaries that were we                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                           |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements; The knowledge for the making of these instrumentsThe history about the origins of these instrumentsThe use of these instruments                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                           |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved; Rodriguan CreoleFrench                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                           |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin. EuropeanAfro-Malagasy                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                           |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                           |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.; Musicians, CraftsmenRefer to chapter II for names of local artists and musical groups                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                           |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | Elderly people            |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it; -                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                           |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission; Oral                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                           |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Refer to chapter I and II for names of local artists and musical groups                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |                           |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                           |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment; Modern musical instruments                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                           |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                              |
|-----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------|
|     | The materials used in the making of the instruments are from endangered species.Limited transmission of knowledge.Modern musical style.                                                                                                                     |                                              |
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;MigrationLack of consciousness among the young generation about the imperatives of preserving traditional knowledgeChanging lifestyleEuropean lifestyle and musical trends                                              |                                              |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Violin are not made any more locally                                                                                                                                                                 |                                              |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                              |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.Unknown                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                              |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                              |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                             |                                              |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                              |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Mr. Melchaide Prosper                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                              |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 21.11.12 at Pointe aux Sables,               |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 20122018                                 |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Sophie Le ChartierNational Heritage Fund |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES- Assemblée Régionale de Rodrigues et al. 2010, 'Musique et Danse Traditionnelles de Rodrigues avec la Troupe de L'Union de Rodrigues'.- UOMICH_MP001_A_SLC_Pte aux Sables_15.11.2012 |                                              |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                        |
|-----|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------|
|     | MAKING OF BAMBOURAP                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                        |
| 1.0 | IDENTIFICATION OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                              |                        |
| 1.1 | Name of the element, as used by community or group concerned;                                                                                                                                                              | Making of Bambourap    |
| 1.2 | Short, maximally informative title (including indication of domain(s));                                                                                                                                                    |                        |
| 1.3 | Community(ies) concerned;                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Rodriguans             |
| 1.4 | Physical location(s) of element;                                                                                                                                                                                           | RodriguesMauritius |
| 1.5 | Short descriptionBambourap consists of a Bamboo cylinder with both extremities blocked. Grooves are made on the whole length of the instrument and coin is scraped on the grooves to produce the musical sound. |                        |
| 2.0 | CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                                             |                        |
| 2.1 | Associated tangible elements;The musical instruments and pictures of the instruments.Materials and tools used for the making of the instruments can still be found. There are also documentaries that were we      |                        |
| 2.2 | Associated intangible elements;The knowledge for the making of these instrumentsThe history about the origins of these instrumentsThe use of these instruments                                                 |                        |
| 2.3 | Language(s), register(s), speech level(s) involved;Rodriguan CreoleFrench                                                                                                                                          |                        |
| 2.4 | Perceived origin.EuropeanAfro-Malagasy                                                                                                                                                                             |                        |
| 3.0 | PERSONS AND INSTITUTIONS INVOLVED WITH THE ELEMENT                                                                                                                                                                         |                        |
| 3.1 | Practitioners(s)/performer(s): name(s), age, gender, social status, and/or professional category, etc.;Musicians, CraftsmenRefer to chapter II for names of local artists and musical groups                       |                        |
| 3.2 | Other participants (e.g., holders/custodians);                                                                                                                                                                             | Elderly people         |
| 3.3 | Customary practices governing access to the element or to aspects of it;-                                                                                                                                              |                        |
| 3.4 | Modes of transmission;Oral                                                                                                                                                                                             |                        |
| 3.5 | Concerned organizations (NGOs and others).Refer to chapter I and II for names of local artists and musical groups                                                                                                      |                        |
| 4.0 | STATE OF THE ELEMENT: VIABILITY                                                                                                                                                                                            |                        |
| 4.1 | Threats to the enactment;Modern musical instrumentsThe materials used in the making of the instruments are from endangered species.Limited transmission of knowledge.Modern musical style.                 |                        |

|     |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                              |
|-----|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------|
| 4.2 | Threats to the transmission;MigrationLack of consciousness among the young generation about the imperatives of preserving traditional knowledgeChanging lifestyleEuropean lifestyle and musical trends                                              |                                              |
| 4.3 | Availability of associated tangible elements and resources;Violin are not made any more locally                                                                                                                                                                 |                                              |
| 4.4 | Viability of associated tangible and intangible elements;                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                              |
| 4.5 | Safeguarding measures in place.Unknown                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |                                              |
| 5.0 | DATA GATHERING AND INVENTORYING                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                              |
| 5.1 | Consent from and involvement of the community/group in data gathering and inventorying;                                                                                                                                                                             |                                              |
| 5.2 | Restrictions, if any, on use of inventoried data;                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                              |
| 5.3 | Resource persons(s): name and status or affiliation;Mr. Melchaide Prosper                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                              |
| 5.4 | Date and place of data gathering;                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 21.11.12 at Pointe aux Sables,               |
| 5.5 | Date of entering data into an inventory;                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 11.11.20122018                           |
| 5.6 | The inventory entry compiled by....                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Sophie Le ChartierNational Heritage Fund |
| 6.0 | REFERENCES TO LITERATURE, DISCOGRAPHY, AUDIOVISUAL MATERIALS, ARCHIVES- Assemblée Régionale de Rodrigues et al. 2010, 'Musique et Danse Traditionnelles de Rodrigues avec la Troupe de L'Union de Rodrigues'.- UOMICH_MP001_A_SLC_Pte aux Sables_15.11.2012 |                                              |